World Conference Of Business Men Seeks End of War

One of Fundamental Aims of International Chamber of Commerce Is to Preserve Peace, Says P. B. Fowler in Review Before Quarterly Meeting of Chamber of Commerce To-day; Activities of Amsterdam Conference Are Wide.

The ambition of business men of the world to preserve peace and cordial relations between nations as demonstrated at the International Chamber of Commerce meeting at Amsterdam was emphasized by P. B. Fowler, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, in an interesting talk at the membership meeting this afternoon.

Mr. Fowler, who was the only Canadian representative at the great meeting, gave a concise review of the convention, which was attended by representatives of thirty-nine countries, and described it as a notable gathering, where all the delegates came to work and did work.

HAS WIDE POWERS

Giving a general idea of the International Chamber, its aims and objects, Mr. Fowler said: "In the year 1919 several of the leading business men in the world gathered together with a view to forming this body, and their efforts were followed by biennial congresses at London, Paris, Rome, Brussels, Stockholm, and this year at Amsterdam. The growth of the organization has been little less than marvelous. In 1928 it consisted of forty members in five countries, and to-day it boasts 3,331 members in forty-five countries, twenty-four of which have their own national committees in permanent and active sessions. The International Chamber is not merely a congress or convention affair but functions continuously at its headquarters in Paris, where each national committee has its resident commissioner, and where the executive council, consisting of leading men in the different countries, members of National committees, meet four times a year to discuss reports of standing committees and other matters arising. This executive council has the widest possible powers to deal with all matters requiring urgent attention and consideration. In addition to this the National committees are in full and active session in their various home lands and constantly in touch with their resident commissioner in Paris and with their own members on the executive council.

All units in the British Broadcasting Corporation have planned to rebroadcast the programme, according to word from London.

MacDonald is expected to face the microphone shortly after 8 o'clock, Pacific time. He will be introduced by Ethel Root.

BIG EAGLE ATTACKS CHILDREN AND IS KILLED BY PARENTS

Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, Oct. 11.—A great golden eagle lost its life here yesterday when it made a swooping attack on school children and stood its ground against a club swinging onslaught of adults. When parents of children at whom the monster bird was swooping went to the youngsters' aid, the eagle faced them. After it had fallen victim to a club it was measured, the tape showing the wings were more than seven feet from tip to tip.

"In-between" Season Halts Planes' Hunt For Lost Fliers In Barren Lands

Capt. E. W. Brouth, leader of the aerial staff of the Dominion Explorers Limited, and several other fliers with planes fitted with skis in place of the summer pontoons, will leave Baker Lake, shown on the map, as soon as the lakes in the north-west are covered with ice, to search for the eight men of the McAlpine party, missing for thirty-three days. It is the "in-between" season in northern Canada now and the fliers are forced to wait till the freeze-up comes and makes smooth surfaces for their skis on the waterways. The picture in the circle shows Lieut.-Col. C. D. H. McAlpine as he waited ashore at a northern Manitoba lake a short time before the fateful flight was started. The shaded part of the map indicates the territory which will be combed by the fliers, a glimpse of two of whom is seen at the lower right.

Two-year Term For Big Theft

Winnipeg, Oct. 11.—A two-year penitentiary sentence was imposed to-day on Norman Stoppard in the police court here when he pleaded guilty to theft of $49,290 from the British Crown Assurance Company Limited. Stoppard, who was Winnipeg manager of the company, was alleged to have made thefts over the period since early in 1927.

THERE IS PLENTY OF SPACE FOR EVERYBODY IN THE ROOM FOR IMPROVEMENT.

Plane Bases Made For Big Northern Search

Winnipeg, Oct. 11.—Balked in their rescue attempts by the delayed approach of winter, directors of the northward hunt for the eight lost McAlpine explorers to-day laid plans for a systematic search to be launched as soon as the freeze-up comes. Near completion of widespread gasoline and food caches is the basis of arrangements for an advance over the barren lands area where the missing men have been marooned for thirty-three days.

Out of Baker Lake, half way to the Arctic shore from the northern boundary of Manitoba, an advance aeroplane patrol is to proceed along the intended route of the two planes which disappeared with Lieut.-Col. C. D. H. McAlpine and his seven companions. As five machines are now ready at Baker Lake, the remaining planes will be available to proceed immediately northward to comb the Arctic coast east and west of Bathurst Inlet, unattained goal of the lost mining prospectors.

B.C. WORSTED MILLS PLACE BIG ORDER

Jantzen Knitting Mills Express Preference For Local Product

Order For 70,000 Pounds of Pure Wool Placed For Canadian Trade

An order for 70,000 pounds of pure wool yarn has been placed with the B.C. Worsted Mills of this city by the Jantzen Knitting Mills of Canada, for the manufacture of high-grade bathing suits and other products, John Moore, managing director of the firm, stated to-day.

The order follows the successful trial of the local product by the Jantzen interests last year and means that local production will be speeded up considerably. The Jantzen interests have knitting mills in Vancouver where the local wool will be turned into the finished product for the Canadian trade.

Victoria-made yarns have been finding steady favor in Canadian circles, it is said, particularly the heather mixture yarns for sweaters coats, which have been much in demand locally. Additional employment will be created as the rate of production is speeded up to meet increasing demand.

"During our first year of operation we have achieved a good deal of development, and many of our difficulties are now behind us," stated Mr. Moore, commenting on the success of the local firm in competition with eastern mills. "With the continued exercise of care and diligence, the outlook for the future is decidedly hopeful."

The B.C. Worsted Mills Limited is one of three enterprises started here last year, with assistance from the city. The machinery for the plant was transported from England. England, as were several of the technical workers employed at the plant to train the new personnel. Mr. Moore has had an extensive experience in the woolen trade, and is under contract to direct the local industry for a term of years.

FOUR MOTORISTS KILLED BY TRAIN

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 11.—Four men were instantly killed to-day at DuPont, near here, when the automobile in which they were riding collided with a Lehigh Valley engine on a grade crossing. The car was reduced to a mass of wreckage and was dragged along the tracks for more than 150 yards.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Oct. 11.—Dr. Hugo Eckener and the entire crew of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin with the exception of Commander Ernest Lehmann have refused to participate in the projected North Pole flight next year for financial and technical reasons.

The refusal became known from a list which Dr. Eckener circulated among the Zeppelin crew asking a positive or negative statement from each.

ARGUMENT ON MALE MINIMUM WAGE CASE ADJOURNED BY COURT

Argument on the application of British Columbia drug clerks for a final order compelling the Male Minimum Wage Board to make an investigation of the pharmaceutical calling with the object of applying a schedule under the Male Minimum Wage Act, has been adjourned in Supreme Court chambers here for hearing on October 22. The intervention of the Assize Court sessions, commencing on October 15 and other hearings led to the postponement, of argument agreed upon. W. H. Davey appears for the drug clerks.

Los Angeles, Oct. 11.—Five pastors of the Angelus Temple, evangelistic enterprise of Aimee Semple McPherson, appeared before Deputy District Attorney Daniel Beecher to-day and alleged the evangelist had been guilty of misappropriation of funds.

Beecher said evidence given him by the five men was of such importance that an immediate investigation of the financial affairs of the Temple would be undertaken.

Three-run Rally Gives Cubs Edge Over Athletics

Joe McCarthy's Sluggers Come to Life After Slump and, Aided by Error, Score Enough Runs in Sixth Inning to Win Third World Series Encounter by 3-1; Cubs Are Outthit by Athletics But They Make Their Swats Count; Bush and Earnshaw Both Pitch the Full Nine Innings.

HIS SINGLE GIVES CUBS FIRST WIN

the right-fielder of the Chicago Cubs, whose bat to-day produced a slashing single which split the first victory for the Braves in the world's series. In the first two games, Cuyler, along with Rogers Hornsby, proved somewhat of a "strike-out" Cuyler. To-day his lone hit split both English and Hornsby across the plate with the winning runs. Two years ago Cuyler was the centre of a storm which developed out of the world's series between the Pittsburgh Pirates and the New York Yankees. Donie Bush, the Pirate manager, would not allow Cuyler to play in the series, and was more or less censured by fans and critics for his action when the Pirates failed disastrously against the Yanks.

Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Oct. 11.—Joe McCarthy's strikeout kings of the first two games suddenly came to life in the third world's series baseball encounter here to-day and the Chicago Cubs offset one of the Athletics' victories by taking the decision 3-1.

Outthit and outpitched by the Athletics, the Cubs needed the break to win the game. The bitter pill for Connie Mack's crew was a fumble by Jimmy Dyke, their third baseman, which allowed Woody English to get safely to first in the sixth. Although Hornsby, the next man up, singled, the side would probably have been out without score when Wilson was thrown out by Bishop on the next play.

That was not the way it happened, however. For when Hornsby smashed out a single to left he scored Bush, who had advanced on Dyke's error. Hornsby had previously struck out twice. Kiki Cuyler, another striker-out, pulled the big trick at this stage with a clean single which shored both English and Hornsby.

PLENTY FOR CUBS

That was all the scoring that took place by the Cubs, but it was enough. The lone Athletic run had come in the previous inning. After Cochrane had beat out a scratch hit to short Bing Miller contributed a timely single, which brought home the A's catcher with their first and last tally of the game.

The Athletics had several fine opportunities to count, but they failed in the pinches. Young Jimmy Fox, the first baseman, who so nobly distinguished himself at bat while the teams played in Chicago, failed to get a hit, although twice he had a chance to break up the ball game with one of his circuit cuts.

MORE STRIKE OUT VICTIMS

To-day's game put the Athletics well on their way to setting a new strike-out record. Ten Cubs fanned the air before Rogers Hornsby's curves, making a total of thirty-six during the first three games. The record of strike-outs for a series is forty-four, and the A's need but an average of five each in the next two games to surpass this total.

Hack Wilson was another Cub slugger who was cracking the ball to-day. The stubby centre fielder was about the only member of the team who could

Full Financial Reorganization Of C.N.R. Soon

Toronto, Oct. 11.—At the next session of Parliament, Sir Henry Thornton hopes to present a scheme for reorganizing the financial structure of the Canadian National Railway, he told the Toronto Empire Club yesterday. It was a stupendous task, he said, to catalogue and appraise the securities of the ninety-two different companies which went to make up the system, but this had been done and the next step was to ask Parliament to approve a scheme which would secure the financial permanence of the property and at the same time enable us to capitalize the financial improvement made in the last few years.

"If the property is to improve in the future as it has in the past," Sir Henry said, "our financial structure must be one which will enable the Government to write down the nation's debt and take advantage of what were formerly liabilities, but have now become assets."

MOUNT ISA VERY RICH ORE ZONE

Predictions Made That It Will Develop Into Greatest Mine in Australasia

Canadian Mining Methods Adopted in New Field, Says Visiting Engineer

Mining interest in Australia is centred in the Mount Isa territory in Queensland, where preliminary development work has revealed twenty-five million tons of commercial grade silver, lead and zinc, according to C. Galbraith, Australian mining engineer, formerly associated with the Broken Hill Mine of New South Wales, who reached Victoria yesterday on board the motorship Aorangi from Sydney.

Drilling and development work has been going on for the last two years, and engineers who have been engaged in the new field are of the opinion that it will develop into one of the greatest mines in Australasia.

The smelter at Mount Isa was designed to handle 2,000 tons of ore daily, but plans are now under way for the doubling of the output in the event of market conditions warranting the development.

SULLIVAN COPIED

According to Mr. Galbraith, Mount Isa is being developed along the lines of the great Sullivan mine of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company in the Kootenays.

The ore will be mined at about four shillings per ton, which means that production will be on a very economical basis.

Whether this economical production will continue under Australian labor conditions is an open question, in the opinion of Mr. Galbraith.

BIG PRODUCTION

The indication of a great extension of the known bodies of ore make it practically certain that the tonnage at present proved will be insignificant in comparison with production during the next few years.

Australians predict a great future for Mount Isa, which is expected to become as prominent in its own field as Broken Hill.

Mr. Galbraith plans to spend some time in Canada.

Langford, Oct. 11.—A Chinese truck laden with vegetables and fruit turning out of W. T. Dixon's ranch on the Island Highway Wednesday morning was struck by a northbound Vancouver touring car, which was badly damaged in the collision. Vegetables and fruit from the vegetable truck littered the road much to the dismay of the Oriental.

On Sunday next service will be held in St. Matthew's Church at 11 a.m. followed by the Holy Communion. The harvest festival service will be held on October 20.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Ord and family have returned to their home on the Goldstream after visiting relatives at Ladysmith.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pitt motored up to Shawnigan Lake for a couple of days hunting.

Rev. Cecil Cherry is staying in Vancouver.

Federal immigration officers picked up the Orientals, and the controller of Chinese immigration at Vancouver held them for deportation on the ground they had been convicted of an offence under the Opium and Narcotic Drug Act.

BLAST KILLS MAN

Concrete, Wash., Oct. 11.—One man was killed and six were injured, four of them seriously, by a premature explosion of two tons of dynamite here yesterday. Fred Baker, thirty-two, of Concrete, an employee of the Du Pont Powder Company, was the man killed. The blast was to have been set off today, with eighteen tons more dynamite to dislodge 200,000 tons of limestone for making cement. Because of the tragedy the date for setting off the big blast was indefinitely postponed.

TRADE TREATY CHANGES URGED

Australian Commissioner in Canada Says Alterations Would Increase Exchange

Montreal, Oct. 11.—If Canada expects to increase its trade with Australia—as Australia wants Canada to do—there must be a number of revisions in the existing trade treaty between the two countries so that, "it will not be an all one-sided affair," says Rupert A. Haynes, commercial representative of Australia in Canada, told members of the Quebec Division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at a dinner here last night.

With all respect to the two governments, Mr. Haynes said, he felt the treaty required readjustment, for it had never been contemplated in Australia it would work out to be such a one-sided affair. No one would suffer more if the treaty were not broadened than would the Canadian manufacturers and it would be a calamity, not only to Canada, but to the whole Empire, if for any reason the treaty was scrapped, he said.

Australians had not contemplated any Canadian anti-dumping law against Australian butter, he said. At present, New Zealand was getting the business while Australia got the abuse. But with a change in the treaty, Mr. Haynes felt this would be rectified in some form or other.

WHEAT TIE-UP SOLIDLY BACKED BY CANADA BANKS

English and European Buyers Must Pay More or Farmers Will Suffer

Winnipeg, Oct. 11.—In the great tie-up of wheat by the Canadian wheat pool in an effort to force English and European buyers to pay higher prices, the wheat pool is taking a chance, but that chance will probably work out, according to Lieut.-Col. H. F. Oeler, president of Oeler, Hammond and Nanton, Winnipeg financial house.

The crazy optimism of ten years ago is gone, Lieut.-Col. Oeler states, and is replaced by a more conservative viewpoint. The present-day prairie farmer is not out of his tan coat as of yore, but is satisfied if he obtains what he deserves. And, to-day, points out Lieut.-Col. Oeler, a new unity exists among the western farmers in their endeavor to obtain satisfaction.

CANADA WOULD SUFFER

Lieut.-Col. Oeler agrees substantially with the contention of Mr. Ramsay that Western Canada's buying power would be substantially reduced, if wheat sales were made to European buyers at current bids. While he refuses to comment on the value of a smaller crop of higher grade in comparison with a larger yield, such as last year, but of lower grade, Lieut.-Col. Oeler considers that the predominantly "better judgment" of the western farmers is a solid ground for belief that the waiting attitude is well taken.

BANKS BEHIND

Generally speaking, support of the wheat pool's stand has marked the opinions of the prairie financial houses. Especially on the prairies the recent statement of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in support of the wheat pool attitude is regarded as both encouraging and timely.

"There has been so much talk in the past by people who did not understand the situation," commented an expert official of one of Canada's grain handling houses to-day, "that the logic of the Canadian Bank of Commerce report comes as a relief. It should serve to dispel some of the faulty opinions regarding grain tie-up, inspired by those who fear they will suffer financially from a delay in grain movement."

MAY GET AS MUCH AS LAST YEAR

Many portions of the wheat will be able to report substantial progress despite the low yield of the 1929 crop, this official believes, provided the wheat holders are able to realize the prices they consider just. Higher grades, bringing higher prices may show better financial returns in many acres than last year's bumper crop whose profits were cut by the heavy cost of harvesting and marketing.

"There is no cause for concern," stated this expert official, expressing the opinion of numerous grain authorities with regard to the movement of the crop to the lake head and eastward.

It is pointed out that the unbroken harvest season this fall has permitted early marketing of crops with the result that elevators contain more grain than might be expected in relation to the size of the crop.

However, considering the restricted yield this year, officials contend almost unanimously that the movement eastward has been fairly normal, and there should be no concern regarding a tie-up.

NADIR'S TROOPS HOLDING KABUL, SAYS REPORT

Peshawar, India, Oct. 11.—An extra edition of Nadir Khan's newspaper, Istem, containing news of the fall of Kabul, capital of Afghanistan, to his forces arrived here to-day.

The newspaper said Nadir Khan's army entered Kabul Sunday at 2 p.m., the city being occupied officially by Shan Wali Khan, brother of Nadir, at 5:30 p.m. Abibulla Khan, erstwhile Bacha Saka, waterboy king, had left already and his whereabouts were unknown. Most of Abibulla's army officers were captured.

The newspaper report was accepted as offering confirmation of Kabul's capture. Interruption of wireless communication with the Afghan capital has made the actual state of affairs there very much of a mystery.

Duncan

Duncan, Oct. 11.—Owing to a misunderstanding with the Uplands Club as to dates of inter-club matches, the men's monthly medal, which should have been played on Sunday last, has been postponed until next Sunday, October 13. Twenty members of the Uplands Club arrived in Duncan Sunday last and engaged twenty of the Cowichan Club. The matches were close and interesting, the home club winning on the day's events by the narrow margin of one point.

The regular monthly meeting of the Cowichan Women's Institute was held in the L.O.O.P. Hall, Duncan, on Tuesday afternoon, the president, Mrs. F. O. Christmas, being in the chair. Members present were: Mesdames F. S. Leath, S. Lauridsen-Hoegh, E. P. Miller, J. Badley, J. Lamont, G. Robinson, S. Stannard, E. Peterson, G. Colk and E. W. Carr-Hilton. After the minutes the financial report was read and confirmed.

Miss Scoons, the speaker for the afternoon, was introduced by the president, Mrs. Scoons, who is president of an Institute in West Suffolk, England, gave an interesting talk on their aims and methods. She told of various competitions they had, and referred to a dinner for six people prepared by a member at a cost of only one shilling. A vote of thanks was tendered to the speaker and tea was served by Mrs. Colk and Mrs. Carr-Hilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Mahon have returned home after a visit to England.

Walter Blythe of Vancouver is holidaying with his mother and sister at "Highfield," Quamichan Lake.

AUSTRALIA VOTES TO-MORROW.

POLITICIANS IN CANADA OFTEN call one another picturesque names in the excitement of an election battle; but the politicians in Australia appear to have gone to at least one better in the contest which ends to-day. For example, imagine Premier Kinn calling an opponent "Mary Pickford." But this is the name Premier Bruce has conferred upon a former supporter who voted against the Government on the Labor arbitration question. Just why one of moviedom's idols should have been dragged into an Australian political fray is somewhat difficult to understand, especially as her stage title was employed to mark disapproval. Nor is there anything aesthetic in some of the language of former Premier Hughes. As far as he can see, his opponent in North Sydney is just a "rabbit."

To the gentleman so designated, however, Mr. Hughes is an inferior quadruped—just a "rat." No doubt "Mary" and the "rat" and "rabbit" will be considered normal citizens as soon as the smoke of the fight has cleared.

Observers in the Commonwealth are predicting the defeat of Premier Bruce's Nationalist-Country Party coalition on the ground that the division of opinion on the main issue of the campaign—the Government's proposal to repeal the Arbitration and Industrial Peace Act—is by no means marked by strictly party lines. The Labor Party fully expects to elect sufficient members to enable Mr. J. H. Scullin, its leader, to form an Administration. But the Independents under former Premier Hughes, although only a few in number, are hopeful of holding the balance of power in the new House. It was on account of defections in the Administration's ranks, for which the spirited opposition of Mr. Hughes to the Prime Minister's decision to vacate the arbitration field was responsible, that the Ministry found itself in a minority of one when the vote was taken.

Mr. Hughes, of course, was a member of the Nationalist Party until he found himself at variance with his leader's views on the arbitration question. It was his former political association which added piquancy to the bitter duel in which both engaged for many hours. The war-time Premier is an out and out supporter of Federal arbitration—as opposed to Mr. Bruce's desire to invest such functions in the states—and he contends that the Government had no warrant to depart from pledges upon which it had been elected, pledges which he considers binding, without going to the people for a verdict. He has reminded the electors that Federal arbitration has been a settled policy for a generation, and hitherto upheld by the Nationalists. Mr. Bruce has argued, on the other hand, that the administration of the Act by the Commonwealth has become impossible and that the only solution of the problem is to hand over control to the states.

To the exclusion of practically all else, excepting the familiar crop of charges and counter-charges in regard to a number of matters, the contest has been waged upon this question of arbitration. It is an interesting subject, since Australia of late years, more than any other Dominion, has suffered very seriously through industrial disputes.

A STRIKING PICTURE

Judging by Mr. Dickie's graphic description of this harrowing situation, the conflict has not arisen from the unwillingness of the Government to accommodate the attacking forces, but from the fact that there simply is not enough room for them in the treasury. The spirit is willing but the space is limited. If it were only a matter of a few hundreds, sweet peace would descend upon the battlefield. But the job-hunters apparently are numbered by the thousands, and these say they have swords drawn to enforce the performance of pledges solemnly given to them a year ago. They are tired of waiting for a proper vindication of the "principles" of the "grand old party" which they and their fathers and their fathers' fathers supported through thick and thin. It is true they represent only a section of the taxpayers, but if there are no spoils, how can there be victory?

Mr. Dickie heroically tried to divert the onslaught. He pleaded with the serried battalions of office-seekers to have a heart. He urged them to "wait" to give the Government "time," to rest upon their laurels until a more auspicious occasion. All of them could not be accommodated, but the situation eventually, he admitted, could be materially eased. He frankly added that even if his party were in office at Ottawa, and he were administering the patronage of his district, he could not begin to meet the demands which were bound to be made upon him for jobs.

Nor is this battleground of high party principle confined to the terrain of James Bay. The conflict is raging all over the province. In every party association a bitter struggle is fought for inside positions. In Victoria, Vancouver and Saanich diverse elements are fighting for strategic vantage points from which they may drop over the wall into the public treasury. Philistine associations, which will have no truck nor trade with the "regulars," are being organized, and each side maintains "observers" in the other's ranks. For some of the associations the inscription "All Hope Abandon Ye Who Enter Here" would be appropriate, for they are on the proscribed list. For others the legend might just as appropriately be "Hope Springs Eternal in the Human Breast."

The picture painted by Mr. Dickie is sadly disillusioning. We never dreamed that the myriads who now are fighting for the flesh-pots had any such purpose in their minds when they voted the late Government out. For did they not dedicate themselves to the sacred cause of "no patronage," "economy, retrenchment and reform," "efficiency," "reduction of taxation," "bigger and better payrolls," "bringing the boys home," and so on? Did they not say it was time for a change, so that they might infuse into our public life a whiter and holier light, a purer atmosphere, of disinterestedness? If they were only given an opportunity to put into power a Government that would do all this, they would be righteously satisfied. Instead, there is weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth and party domestic strife. Indeed, Mr. Dickie actually bewilders us by his disclosures.

TOO ONE-SIDED

AT A DINNER IN MONTREAL LAST night the Quebec division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association were told by Mr. Rupert A. Haynes, commercial representative of Australia to Canada, that if Canada expects to increase her trade with Australia—as Australia wants her to do—there must be a number of revisions in the existing trade treaty between the two countries so that "it will not be an all one-sided affair."

Although the treaty may not be in danger, the warning Mr. Haynes has given may not be altogether ignored. As he very properly points out, no one would suffer more if the treaty were not broadened than would the manufacturers of Canada, and it would be a serious blow to the cause of inter-Empire trade if for any reason the arrangement were to be scrapped.

The present one-sidedness of the trade exchange is pointedly reflected in the figures for the twelve months ending with August of this year. We sold to Australia in this period goods to the value of $19,463,904, and bought only $3,642,161 worth. This is all very well for this Dominion; but it is hardly likely that we shall be allowed to enjoy such an advantage indefinitely.

The matter of some adjustment to the treaty is of considerable importance to British Columbia. A ship laden with lumber for Australia—the first to be dispatched under the Dominion Government subsidy—recently left this coast, and our lumbermen are hoping that it will not be long before their products enter the Commonwealth market on a preferential basis. But he will be a courageous Canadian Minister who asks for more concessions as long as the balance of trade is so heavily in our favor, unless he is prepared to offer some in return.

Mr. Haynes's warning should be noted by certain politicians who talk loudly about inter-Empire trade, but who want to do all the selling and no buying.

HEALTH AND JAY-WALKING

AMONG THE INSTRUCTIONS THE City Health Officer has issued for observance in connection with Empire Health Week is this: "Why toot your horn unnecessarily at every inoffensive foot passenger? He has the right of way, anyhow. Feet were made before motors. Slow down and let him cross." These suggestions are made in recognition of the fact that "excessive noise is a public nuisance" and that "its effect on the nervous system is insidious but very real."

At its Wednesday meeting the City Police Commission considered a communication asking it to put a stop to jay-walking, the writer complaining that pedestrians "cut diagonally across the intersections, jay-walk, and carry on in the street as if there was absolutely no traffic; in fact, totally oblivious to it." The Chief of Police informed the Commission that police departments all over the world had found they were unable to enforce by-laws dealing with jay-walking.

The onus of reasonable precaution, of course, is not altogether upon motorists. Pedestrians must bear their share. Motor traffic is now a very large factor in modern civilization, and foot traffic must co-operate with it in the common interest. But in view of the fact that the danger to life and limb from motor traffic is very great and always present, while the pedestrians' carelessness can harm nobody but themselves, there devolves upon vehicle drivers a very special responsibility.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE EUROPEAN MUDDLE
The Springfield Republican

As time passes the architecture of eastern Europe, as it was left by the peace conference of 1919, must seem less and less satisfactory to French statesmen, because it is a mixture of incompatibilities. That famous Polish "corridor," for example, while it might be defended on Wilson's principle of giving inland nations access to the sea, could also be defended as part of the "sanitary cordon" that was to keep Germany and isolate Russia from Europe. Under ideal conditions so anomalous a configuration of the map would be none too workable; under the actual conditions of jealous nationalism and commercial rivalry which have prevailed, this barrier has been an unmitigated nuisance.

FOOD FADDISTS
The Saskatoon Star-Phoenix

Everyone must do some personal experimenting before discovering a proper diet. How much and what to eat depends to some degree on physical makeup and mode of life. Some foods, like those mentioned by the Medical Association (milk and milk products, leafy vegetables and fruits), must be in every sensible diet. The rest is a matter of personal preference. Having found out by trial and error what food one needs, it is a good idea not to let the mind dwell on the subject. There is something in the dictum of Mr. Chesterton that health is the most unhealthy of topics. People who are forever talking about their physical ills, their operations and their vitamins are rarely people in first-class health.

A THOUGHT

Cast out the scorner, and contention shall go out; yea, strife and reproach shall cease.—Proverbs xxii. 10.
 A dismal, universal hiss, the sound of public scorn.—Milton.

Loose Ends

Careless words cause trouble in the hearts of Savona and Barkerville, which happily is smoothed away—the Organized Wives of Washington battle for their rights—and England burns what the women of America are not like.
 By H. B. W.

A FEW CHANCE words dropped into this column a while ago have sent echoes reverberating up the rolling valley of the Thompson and down the narrow dilapidated street of old Barkerville. There is distress among the old-timers of Savona on the Thompson and of Barkerville, on Williams Creek, and all because this column made a few poetical references to the history of Cariboo.

IT SEEMS that in a moment of weakness this column said that four men were hanged one morning in the little jail yard of the Richfield Courthouse. James B. Leighton, who was in Barkerville in its salad days of the early sixties, was aroused at this reference. He wrote immediately to this column and said it had been "most beautifully stuffed" by the modern dwellers of Barkerville, for only four men had ever been hung in all Cariboo, a white man and an Indian at Richfield in 1867, and two Indians at Quesset in 1864. And as for the statement of this column that there are old-timers in Barkerville to this day who sat on these trial juries, "this," said Mr. Leighton, "is so ridiculous that it is hardly worth denying," which are hard words.

BUT THIS column, remarkable as it may seem, has not gone without a defender. F. J. Tregillus, who came to Barkerville in the early days and still lives there, and is perhaps the most knowledgeable man in the Cariboo, has just written to me and to Mr. Leighton to say that this column was not as far off the track after all. Mr. Tregillus, you see, was the gentleman who so beautifully stuffed this column and thus caused pain to Mr. Leighton, down in Savona.

MR. TREGILLUS admits that the legend about the four men hanged at Richfield may be exaggerated, but Mr. Leighton's statement that there was only one murder trial at Richfield, in 1867, is open to correction. Mr. Tregillus says he himself served on a jury there about 1904, when Saul, an Indian, was tried for murder. Judge Howay, famous historian of Cariboo, acting for the defence, and the late Charles Wilson for the prosecution. So that there are old-timers still who served on the juries of the Richfield Courthouse. And this explanation ought to restore peace once more in the tumble-down Barkerville town and in the village of Savona, where the main road crosses the blue waters of the Thompson.

MRS. ROSALIE JONES DILL, wife of Senator Dill of Washington, attended a luncheon of the Woman's City Club in Baltimore the other day and made an announcement of far-reaching effect in the public life of the United States. The wives of official Washington, Mrs. Dill announced, have organized "to protect their preferential rights at social functions against other relatives of dignitaries seeking preferred placings." This organization, of course, is designed to prevent a repetition of the famous Mrs. Gann case, which ruined the peace of President Hoover's first few months in office. The wives of official Washington are determined that never again shall an outsider like Mrs. Gann, sister of Vice-President Curtis, sit above them at table, for as Mrs. Dill chastely explained it to the Woman's City Club of Baltimore, "Claimants may come and claimants may go, but the wives go on forever," which is hardly news.

DURING THE social season of the coming winter, said Mrs. Dill, the organized wives will see that each of them is accorded a position in strict accordance with the importance of her husband's public office. Men who have witnessed at first hand the phenomenon of wives going on forever will wonder why the Organized Wives of Washington thus limit their ambitions. They must go further than demanding places at table corresponding to the official office of their husbands. When they have succeeded in putting Washington society on a truly satisfactory basis the husbands' official office will be decided conversely according to their wives' place at table. Then, and not before, will democracy reach its full fruition.

A AMERICAN CIVILIZATION, we are told, is well on the way to just such conditions, but hasn't realized it yet. An outsider is required to reveal the true facts, and such an outsider happened along the other day in the person of Constance Eaton, special observer of The Daily Telegraph of London. This lady came to some startling conclusions after observing the complexion of American society. "Two distinct classes are evolving (in America), one inferior and the other superior," she declared. "To the former belong all the men, to the latter belong all the women. The distinction is not overtly discussed; it is rarely thought about; it is simply being taken for granted. Owing to this conspiracy of silence the dividing line is growing sharper every day. Herein lies the indelicacy of this change that is coming gradually over the face of American democracy.

THE AMERICAN male has always had a tendency to put woman on a pedestal, even if he is not so poetic about it as were the heroes of the age of chivalry. The modern equality of the sexes instead of doing away with this has only changed its manner of expression. Woman may stand on the same political plane with man, but spiritually he considers her as remote as the stars. Mentally and morally she is supposed to belong to a higher sphere. In America man is the worker. A man who is not a money maker is considered a drone, an idler. He does not count unless he can pile up money chiefly for the benefit of his woman-kind. Broadly speaking, a woman is not supposed to work. Man earns money, woman spends it. The leisure class consists almost exclusively of women.

THIS SHOULD prove edifying to the readers of The Daily Telegraph of London, even if it is largely untrue. But if it were true, what if it? America has to have something to spend its money on, and wives, after all, are more comforting than cannons and battleships. And it is good for America to look up to something even if it is only a wife. No civilization has perished because it treated its women well, but many have perished because they didn't.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

The Victoria Daily Times, October 11, 1904

The criminal assizes were opened this morning, Mr. Justice Martin presiding. There was a large attendance of spectators, interest being heightened by the recent startling developments in connection with the Chinese theatre murder case.

Weather forecast—Victoria and vicinity, fresh to strong southerly winds, unsettled with showers.

Quite a crowd gathered at Oak Bay Park on Saturday afternoon to witness the first association football game of the district league between the Victoria United and the Victoria West teams. The game proved close and interesting throughout. It was won by the United team after a hard struggle, 5 goals to 3.

The Victoria Cricket Club has held a most successful season. Both the first and second elevens have been stronger than usual and captured an exceptionally large percentage of the games played. The total number of games contested was twenty-three, of which seventeen were victories, five reverses and one a draw.

A special dispatch to The Times from Clayoquot announces the arrival there yesterday of the sealing schooner Carlotta L. Cox. The schooner has aboard 394 skins.

The upper picture shows the British Prime Minister on the steps of the City Hall during New York's reception in his honor last Friday. From left to right in the front row are Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State of the United States; Miss Isabel MacDonald, daughter of the Prime Minister; Premier MacDonald, Mayor James J. INDUSTRIAL RESOURCES OF CANADA

The most important industrial resources of Canada are timber, minerals, and water power, and it is on water power that the development of timber, minerals and many other natural resources mainly depends. It is water power, also, that supplies over 90 per cent of the power, light and street railway requirements of the whole Dominion.

Atheists in Russia Establish Colleges

Leningrad, Russia, Oct. 11.—The first anti-religious university in the world was opened here yesterday with elaborate ceremonies in the great building of the House of Culture.

Named after Stepanoff Sevostoff, pioneer atheist in Russia, the anniversary of whose death was yesterday the new university began its sessions with 300 students, forty-seven of whom are women.

The institution, it is said, is intended to prepare a large body of anti-religionists and active propagandists of militant atheism. Professor Tan Bogoraz of the Russian Academy of Science, declared that at the present time, "when the church is attempting to regain its lost power in Russia," a relentless struggle based upon strict science must be carried on against religion.

Moscow, Oct. 11.—Following the lead of Leningrad in establishing an anti-religious university, the Society of Militant Atheists yesterday opened a similar institute in Moscow. The students, who number more than 400, will have as their instructors Madame Lenin, Commissioner of Health Semashko and other Soviet leaders.

In opening the institute, Emilian Yaroslavsky, president of the Society of Militant Atheists, said atheism was a factor of great cultural importance and was part of the class struggle.

PREVENTION OF FIRE BY PUBLIC IS WORTHWHILE

Three Centres in Province at One Time Destroyed By Fire

Fire Loss in Canada For 1928 Was $36,402,018 Or $3.79 Per Head

The annual campaign against the fire fiend, "Red Dragon," is again before the people of Canada and the support of everyone is needed to reduce the immense loss by fire in homes, factories and forests.

The answer to "What Is Fire Prevention Week?" should be known by every Victorian and a systematic clean-up of premises made, to eliminate as far as it is within their power, the possibility of destructive fires. In British Columbia, three cities have been destroyed, Vancouver as a village in July 1886, caused by a neglected clearing fire; the destruction of New Westminster in October 1886, caused by sparks igniting a hay storage, and Fernie in 1910, caused from forest fires.

Besides these, many other cities in both Canada and the United States have suffered severe loss through carelessness on the part of someone, so the week, October 6 to 12, has been declared "Fire Prevention Week," and the importance attached to this campaign can be better realized from the fire loss recorded by the Dominion Fire Commissioner at Ottawa. In 1928, Canada's losses amounted to $36,402,018, amounting to $3.79 per head of population, compared with the average annual loss by fire of less than thirty-three cents in European countries.

W. E. SPEED WINS IMPROMPTU TALK

Gains Underwriters' Trophy With Three-minute Speech on Premiums

Speaking on the topic "Premiums," W. E. Speed won the three-minute talk competition held by the Victoria and Island Life Underwriters' Association at its luncheon at Spence's yesterday. Several members of the club were allotted subjects during the meeting and were called upon to speak on them without preparation.

As a result of his victory Mr. Speed was presented with the Underwriters' Cup, a perpetual challenge trophy for impromptu speech contests.

"The Fundamental Difference Between a Life Policy and an Endowment Policy" was the subject allotted to Major R. Wallis, the first contestant. He referred to the features of the two explaining the causes of differing rates.

R. T. Chave was called upon to speak on "Does Appearance Count." He stated that as professional men, it was of vital importance for underwriters to keep up appearance. He noted the effect of a beautiful car on a buyer. This was identical with the impression created in selling life insurance, Mr. Chave added. The approach to a potential buyer was greatly facilitated by the good looks of an agent, he concluded.

both ethical and non-ethical forms of expression.

FATHOMING CLIENTS

"Many a case has failed to be written owing to a poor approach," stated Alex. Marshall in speaking on "The Approach." Apparently, he considered, counted a great deal in this respect. Another valuable asset in the approach was fathoming of the likes of a client.

Mr. Speed dealt with the different types of premiums, showing which part went to the company and which to the agent. He was glad to note that Canadian premiums were virtually the same and contrasted them favorably with the English ones.

Remarking that his subject "was as dry as a prohibitionist's dinner," J. W. Hudson sketched the object of beneficiaries. Several phases of this type of insurance were dealt with during the talk.

Fred. McGregor was given "The Law of Averages" for his subject. He spoke of the statistical complications that had been made to determine how the insurance company could function. He also spoke of the law of averages in getting results.

POPPY IS SYMBOL OF REMEMBRANCE

Proceeds of Sale Help Sick and Needy War Veterans

"Don't Bring Wreaths Out of Cold Storage," Organizer Urges

"Canada will not forget her debt nor neglect to pay it in full," was the promise made by the people of Canada to the troops and those whom it was sought to enlist," said the honorary organizer of the Armistice and Poppy Day celebration in a statement to The Times to-day.

"While many have kept that promise to the limit of their ability, others have forgotten the obligation which that promise entailed. Too often, poppy canvassers are being told by business men that they do not require wreaths this year as they have one or more from previous years, which are quite good.

"The object of the poppy, as a symbol of remembrance, is to honor the dead, provide work for the disabled and raise a fund to help sick and needy veterans and their dependents. If wreaths purchased in other years are brought out of cold storage and displayed as proof of remembrance, the disabled are not afforded work, nor are the sick and needy provided with relief.

APPEAL TO CITIZENS

"The appeal to citizens is: Give liberally and help the comrades of men who died serving with them. The dead we cannot help, but we can honor their memory. And the most fitting way to do that is by assisting the living, whom we can help.

"The practice of keeping wreaths from year to year is a bad one, and the Armistice Period Committee urges all purchasers to hand them back after the observance so that they may be taken to the soldiers' plots in Ross Bay and Royal Oak cemeteries and

SODIUM SULPHATE DEPOSITS

The investigation of deposits of natural sodium sulphate (Glauber's salt) in Western Canada by the Mines Branch, Department of Mines, has proven up tonnage of hydrous sodium and magnesium sulphates in excess of 100,000,000 tons. The nature of the salts is such that a large amount of research and experimental work in semi-commercial and commercial plants is necessary in order to devise proper methods of harvesting and drying the salts.

SALE OF GERMAN ART TREASURES

Auction in Berlin Is Sequel to Financier's Suicide

Berlin, Oct. 11.—A total of $625,000 was realized at the first day's auction of the art collection of Edward Simon, one of Germany's outstanding capitalists, who endowed the Institute of Medicine of Berlin University. The sale was a sequel to the tragic suicide of Herr Simon in September, when he was forced to sell his magnificent home and move to a small apartment in order to raise money to meet the gambling debts of his son.

Leading European and United States art dealers and museum directors were attracted to the sale, and Sir Joseph Duveen of England paid the highest price of the day when he bid in "The Three Wise Men" by Giovanni Di Paolo for $41,500. He also bought a mural "Madonna and Child" by Lucia Della Robbia for the Detroit museum, paying $40,000 for it.

YOUR BABY and MINE

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

MONGOLIAN IDIOTS PERMANENTLY BACKWARD

A reader writes: "Please publish the following column of your knowledge about Mongolian idiocy, causes, symptoms and results in babies and older children."

ANSWER:

There are many opinions as to the cause of Mongolian idiocy but none of them is authenticated, in that it holds true for every child. It has been said that such children are born to parents who are old and past the age for normal child-bearing, but this is refuted by the records of cases of Mongolian idiocy in families where both parents are young and vigorous. These children have been born into families where the parents are closely related, but this likewise has been looked upon as happenstance. Syphilis, in one or both parents, has been given as a cause. Whatever the cause, the result seems to be a child whose cellular development is markedly defective.

The facial expression from which the type gets its name is distinctive and is apparent even in young babies; it is due to a defective skull development and is characterized by the slant eyes.

NAVAL BASES INFORMAL TOPIC OF DISCUSSION

Ottawa, Oct. 11.—Officials here received with interest, but without comment, the New York newspaper dispatches from Washington stating that during his visit to Ottawa Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, Prime Minister of Great Britain, would discuss with the Canadian Government a suggested demilitarization of the naval base at Halifax. The dispatches also stated that the British naval base in the West Indies as a "grand gesture" of good will toward the United States.

The British Government has no authority whatever over Canadian military or naval activities, it was pointed out, all property which was once under British jurisdiction having at various times passed into Canadian hands. The last British troops to garrison at Halifax left as far back as 1900, since when the Dominion has had complete control.

A special dispatch to The New York World from Washington yesterday said: "From an unimpeachable source The World learns that during the MacDonald conversations, after naval tonnage questions had been discussed, President Hoover, to Premier MacDonald's surprise, raised the question of the demilitarization of the world court."

President Hoover explained his fears of adverse Senate action on the naval treaty and the necessity of dealing with problems of sea law, and suggested invocation of the world court. Mr. MacDonald explained the reasons why this was difficult for Great Britain, but promised immediately on his return to London to open negotiations on this question on all its aspects.

Mr. Hoover, according to The World's authority, discussed British Empire naval bases in the Caribbean and at Halifax. Before his official visit closed, Mr. MacDonald was able to secure a statement from the United States naval authorities that these bases are not regarded by our admirals as a menace to the United States, but he promised to discuss this subject at Ottawa next week and raise it at once on his return to London.

LABOR'S PART IN GOVERNMENT IS DEBATE TOPIC

British Delegates and W. Green Address American Federation at Toronto

Toronto, Oct. 11.—An impromptu debate on political policies and an exposition of the advantages of full co-operation between railroad and labor unions combined made up yesterday's proceedings at the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor here. Two British trade union delegates stressed the building up of an independent labor party in Great Britain to the point where a Labor Government had been formed, and induced William Green, president of the federation, to respond with a defence of the non-partisanism maintained by the federation in the United States.

CO-OPERATION IS ASSET

Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railway, reiterated that co-operation with labor unions on his system, under a plan followed by the Baltimore & Ohio and other lines in the United States, had "come to be regarded as our greatest asset."

He was followed by several speakers from railroad organizations who explained the methods by which unions and managements had worked to better advantage under the policy involved. J. E. Brown, representing British machinists, swung into an address whose tone contrasted sharply with Sir Henry Thornton's address from the motion picture Labor Party of that country was "now the Government of Great Britain."

"I am not one of those who imagine the Labor Government is going to effect a revolution," he said, "but Labor will effect an economic and industrial revolution in society. We are yet faced with the representatives of organized predatory wealth. May be they will forego their rights, and if they do, they will be well advised, for they can no more arrest the onward drive of organized labor than they can arrest the sun. But I think it would be tantamount to expect those people to get off our backs and say 'Thank you.'"

GREAT CHANGES

"The United States and the United Kingdom are not comparable in their conditions, but both are being driven by world-wide economic forces. We realize we are on the verge of great economic changes. That is the meaning of the Labor Government."

J. B. Bell, an English weaver and second of the trade delegates from Britain, made the same point.

"Out of our trade union movement has grown the political organization that controls our country," he said. "You talk of injunctions that harass your efforts to get better conditions. We faced these. The more they persecuted us, the more they drove our working people to control the political machinery that governs us."

DECLARATION BY GREEN

President Green took issue quickly with the speakers.

"We are advancing our interests in the United States by pursuing a different policy from organized labor in Great Britain," he said. "We see in political power the same virtue that our English brothers do, but we are hard-headed men. We have a different country. It has forty-eight states and forty-eight governments, and at least half of those states are each larger than Great Britain. We have a cosmopolitan people, with languages and interests of great diversity. It is not possible in this great expanse of land with this great diversity, to create a single party organization like that which exists in compact Great Britain."

"Here is the difference that must always be considered. We know we are on the right track nor in abstaining from party organization, but if the interests of organized labor can be served by a labor party, we will face the issue in this congress of labor."

AUSTRALIAN VOTE WILL BE BIG TOTAL

Bruce thereupon decided to hand back the Commonwealth's arbitration power to the states and remove dual control. The latter by Mr. Bruce, Commonwealth would retain control over the essentially national shipping and waterways industries, apart from which the Commonwealth court would cease to function.

PROTESTED BY LABORITES

Apparently this momentous decision was reached without consulting the rank and file members of the Government Party. The Opposition (Labor) instantly denounced a step which it members would be against the progress of national unity. Mr. Bruce, however, went on with the preparation of his Maritime Industries Bill and introduced it at the beginning of the next session.

Rt. Hon. W. M. Hughes, former Prime Minister, declared himself against the bill, and from this point the conflict was more or less a duel between Mr. Bruce and Mr. Hughes. The latter by Mr. Bruce, well, an eminent Victorian lawyer, and three other Government members. The bill, however, managed to pass its second reading, after which Mr. Hughes moved an amendment that it should not be enforced until the people had spoken on it either at a referendum or at an election. On this the Government, which for more than six years had enjoyed a safe majority, was defeated by one vote. Mr. Hughes' protesting group gaining another adherent in Walter Marks, for years a strong Nationalist supporter.

CANADIAN PARALLEL

A recent incident in Canadian politics was recalled when the Governor-General, Lord Stonehaven, decided to grant Premier Bruce a dissolution without sending for Mr. Scullin, Leader of the Opposition, or for Mr. Hughes, who conceivably might have carried on with Labor support.

In strongly opposing the bill Mr. Hughes protested a decision to abolish so important a part of Australian industrial life without any mandate from the people. Mr. Bruce won the last two general elections on the issue of enforcing industrial laws and the maintenance of the arbitration system. To abolish the Commonwealth court would be a retrograde step, and the opinion of the electors should be taken on it, he said.

When Mr. Hughes voted with the Opposition on a censure motion Premier Bruce caused a sensation by expelling him and another member from the party room. Commenting on this incident, The Sydney Sun re-

I recommend the Compound to every woman I hear complaining and when I feel weak I take it again myself. Everybody says they never saw me looking better. # Philadelphia Jubilant As Third Game Starts

THE SPORTS MIRROR

A baseball tradition, almost as old as the game itself, held against the Chicago Cubs Wednesday as they were routed by Connie Mack's stampeding elephants.

If a pitcher strikes out the first batsman to face him in the first inning, this diamond tradition points to a loss for him and his team. Percy (Pat) Malone whiffed the first Athletics batter, Max Bishop, and fed the first by striking out "Mule" Haas, the second man on the A's batting order.

Old heads of the game say they recall but one or two exceptions to the rule, one of them being a tie game because of rain.

Two rajahs, one of them of swat and another of a royal household, were present at Wednesday's game. "Rajah" Hornsby of the Cubs was one; the genuine one was Rajah of Kapurthala, India, who said he had often heard of the Cubs' second sacker.

Robert Moses Grove, the spindly left-hander, was a heavy and inspiring winner all through the race in the American League. His record is one of the best ever enjoyed by a flinger, according to Connie Mack.

Of course, much was expected of Grove as he now has the experience and background to back up his pitching skill. Connie recently pointed out. This has enabled him to do his work well without burning up all of his energy. It takes several seasons, especially for a left-hander to acquire poise, evenness and confidence.

Following the custom of the football rules committee which annually changes the game in such a way that the average fan cannot understand it without a rule book, the National Association of Baseball Leagues has had the following suggested drastic alterations in the playing code.

Abolishment of muffed fly ball. Manager John McGraw of the Giants argued that this play once cost him a world series, through the inadvertence of Fred Snodgrass. It was ruled that if the outfielder touches the ball the batter is out.

Outlawing of the double play. It has been decided that the man on first base should not be made to suffer for a batter's fault. On all infield grounders, the runner on first automatically goes to second.

Batters no longer allowed three strikes. The number of strikes required to put out a batter has been reduced to one. This legislation is intended to counteract the effect of the lively ball.

Running to third base. Only left-handed batters shall be forced to run to first base after the ball has been struck. Right-handed batters may run to third, thus wiping out the advantage left-handed batters have held on balls hit to the infield.

As the world series, which will wind up baseball for the season, hangs fire, hockey topics will not be amiss. Items of interest to ice fans in Victoria will be the whereabouts of two stars of the long defunct Western Canada loop. These are "Red" Dutton and Herb Gardner, former defence stars of the Calgary Tigers and at one time rated as the best in the league.

Dutton has signed with the Montreal Maroons of the National Hockey League for another two seasons. Last season, Dutton ended his three-year contract with the Maroons and he immediately signed for another couple of seasons. It is rumored, at the Eastern management wanted his services for a longer period but he put his name down for just two.

During the summer Dutton is a railroad contractor and for the last few months has been located at Central Butte, Saskatchewan.

This year will see Gardner in the role of manager for the Philadelphia club in the American League. When the old W.C.H.A. passed out, Gardner went to the Canadians and was a sensation.

Pretty soft for those golfers who frequent the canyon course of the Country Club at Salt Lake. Through the efforts of a club member, players now ride to the top of an eighty-eight-foot ascent after driving from No. 14 tee.

A small truck, comfortably seated for a foursome, makes the trip to the top in twenty seconds, over a winding concrete drive.

Previous to this contribution, golfers had to walk laboriously up the incline. Many "charley horses" were attributed to the difficult climb.

Rugby Squads Will Practice To-morrow

Just as the sun brings the flowers out in the spring, rain has brought English rugby players out this fall. Both the Canadian Scottish and James Bay seniors will hold work-outs at the Willows near Oak Bay Park respectively to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

This afternoon Victoria College played a practice game against Victoria High at the High School grounds, while the University School has been working out regularly at Mount Tahoma.

In preparation for the season the intermediate Scottish elected Len Barty their captain at a meeting last night. Ken Crabtree was named vice-captain. The intermediates will join the seniors at the Willows practice to-morrow.

Philadelphia Fan Finds Honest Man

Philadelphia, Oct. 11.—Believe it or not, a Philadelphia baseball fan lost eighteen free tickets for the world series games here and got them back.

The man who found the tickets returned them to the owner after reading his notice in the lost and found column of a newspaper, and refused to accept a cash reward, though he said he was out of work and would like to see a game.

Albert Bell, owner of the precious pastebards, considers himself very fortunate. He had been given the tickets by Manager Connie Mack, only to lose them as he walked along Chestnut Street.

The finder declined to reveal his name, but he will see one of the games as the guest of Bell.

Dockers Have Chance For Top Soccer Berth

Esquimalt Will Field Strong Team To Meet Thistles In To-morrow's Fixture

West's Meet Westholmes While City Takes on Five C's; Ten Games Carded

Out to humble the league-leading Saanich Thistles, Esquimalt, holders of second place in the Saturday league, will take the field at full strength for their game at Beacon Hill to-morrow.

At present the Dockers stand one point behind the Saanich boys and to offset this deficiency with a win in the feature match to-morrow. However, the suburban team has shown good form so far this season and should give Esquimalt plenty of anxiety throughout the encounter.

At the Royal Athletic Park, Victoria, City, third-berth holders, will clash with the Five C's, while the Westholmes will take up against Victoria West at Victoria West Park.

Although the Wests are counted too strong for the hotelmen, the Westholmes have plenty of enthusiasm and hold their own in a good battle against their more experienced opponents.

Among the Juniors and juveniles, exceptionally keen games are expected. The younger players have been putting up good soccer so far and will doubtless draw many spectators to their matches this week.

TEN MATCHES
Including the senior fixtures, ten games will be staged to-morrow.

The Junior League fixtures follow: James Island vs. Victoria City; K. of C. vs. Royal Oak; Y.M.C.A. vs. Sidney Esquimalt vs. Oakland.

Six teams in the Lower Island Juvenile Football Association will usher in the season with the following matches:

The following team will represent Esquimalt Juniors against Oaklands: Woods, Anderson and Warder, McKechnie, Hicks, McLean, Stewart, Clarke, Hicks, Richard and Evans. Sparsa, Brian, Tooby and March.

DIVISION I
Victoria West vs. J.B.A.A. at Beacon Hill, upper ground; referees, Sergeant Lindgren.

DIVISION II
Five C's vs. Victoria West, at the Royal Athletic Park; referees, McInnis.

Sons of England vs. Saanich Thistles, at Beacon Hill, upper ground; referees, McVane.

Two matches, with the exception of the last two, will start at 3 o'clock, and the latter at 1:30 o'clock.

To-morrow's teams will be as follows:
Five C's (Seniors)—Parquhar, Tuckwell (captain); Harwood, Reg. Shaw, McConnell, Quinn; Linsley, Cockin, Burgess, Quainton and Bob Shanks. Reserves, Franklin and Bradshaw.

Westholmes—Robertson or Bennett; Campbell, Carmichael; D'Arcy, Banks, Bowman; McKenzie, Stevens, Baker, Clarke and Stickney. Reserves, Sneddon and McLaughlin.

All players are asked to meet at the Westholme Hotel at 2:15 o'clock.

Sons of England, Division II, juveniles, will be selected from the following: D. To, Lambrick, Bridges, T. Simpson, J. Hall, V. Headley, H. Price, A. Minnie, E. Hetherington, H. Sage and Simpson. All players are asked to be on the grounds at 1:15 o'clock.

Victoria City Juniors will be selected from: Rogers, Moody, Woolcock, Smith, Stoper, Robson, Gibson, Riddle, Weyder, McMillan, Noble, Davidson and O'Brien. All players are asked to be at the Victoria of France at 1 o'clock.

Esquimalt—DeCosta; Swenney, Joe Watt, McAllister, Bob Stewart, Homer, Foster, "Scotty" Stewart, John Watt, Pepin and Roberts. Reserves, Scanlon.

SOUL OF HONOR WINS HANDICAP AT LAUREL PARK

Even Money Favorite Wins By Neck in $2,000 Crisfield Purse

Longshots Rule in Jamaica, Thirty to One Being Top Price

New York, Oct. 11.—Soul of Honor, the Audley farm's three-year-old, which is good at times and just the opposite on others, ran one of his best races yesterday as he won the Crisfield Handicap and $2,000 at Laurel.

Thrown in with four other thoroughbreds of the upper class, Soul of Honor won the mile and a sixteenth in 1:44 3-4 to defeat—Ranocosa, Stable's Mel Fox by a neck with William T. in third position. Martineau and Dunmore also ran. The winner paid $4.50 to win.

In the seven-year-old and probable sprints for three-year-olds and upward, the Ranocosa stable had better luck. Laverne Fator riding Donny won in front of a classy field. Kopec was second and Mud third, a head separating each.

LONG SHOTS PREVAIL
Long shot victories prevailed at Jamaica, the shortest odds on any of the six winners being 5 to 1. Jimmy Burke put over the biggest upset of the day when he rode Greedy Girl, a 33 to 1 shot, to victory in the third race. Even the feature race—the Ocelot claiming handicap—went to an outsider, Annapolis, one-half of the Salmon Wilson entry winning and Chatter, the other half, finishing second. Low Gear was third. The entry was quoted at 5 to 1 and the win was worth $3,600 to the owners.

KEETING CLOSERS
Churchill Downs brought its eleven-day fall meeting to a close with Jockey Vernon Smith and K. Russell battling for honors. The former, who was the favorite, won by a nose.

WINS ON FOUL
Milwaukee, Oct. 11.—Charlie Greenberg, Los Angeles lightweight, won on a foul from Tommy Grogan, Omaha, in the seventh round of their ten-round bout last night.

Greatest Sharpshooter of Hockey Hangs Up Skates

Ottawa, Oct. 11.—Cy Denneny, he of the whistling shot, has hung up his skates. The man who ranked as one of the greatest sharpshooters in modern hockey, who scored more goals than any other player in the National League in more seasons than one, has announced his retirement from the ice game. He takes the bow after thirteen years of service in the game, during which time he played with Ottawa Senators and Boston Bruins of the present N.H.L. and the Toronto Ontarios of other years.

While he has written "Fins" on his career as a player, Denneny may still become connected with some club in an advisory capacity. With the Boston club last season, he acted as first lieutenant to Manager Art Ross. The Boston club has now declared Denneny a "free agent."

J. Capablanca Is Winner of Chess Masters' Tourney

Barcelona, Oct. 11.—By defeating Aguilera of Spain in the thirteenth round, Jose R. Capablanca of Cuba yesterday won first prize in the international chess masters' tournament here. Dr. Tartakover of France, who was second in the standing, could do no better than a draw with Marin of Spain.

In the other games, Ribera of Spain defeated Monticelli of Italy, and Gollmayr and Villardelo, both of Spain, defeated their countrymen, Torres and Font. Yates of England won from Colle of Belgium. The match between Menechik of Russia and Soler of Spain ended in a draw. Rey of Spain had a bye in the final round.

STAR CLASS YACHTS RACE

Vancouver Club's Crew Does Well in International Contest at New Orleans

New Orleans, La., Oct. 11.—With fresh easterly winds and probable showers predicted for to-day, contenders in the annual international star class yacht race awaited the start of the race to send them scurrying over the waters of Lake Pontchartrain in the second day's race.

"Peggy Wee" of the Bay Side, L.I. Yacht Club, entered in the lead with twenty-three points by virtue of its twenty-two-year-old skipper, Arthur Knapp Jr. sending her across the line to victory in the first run yesterday with the defending champion, "Spartan II" of the Southern Yacht Club of New Orleans, pressing hard behind to take twenty-two points. The Royal Vancouver Yacht Club's crew in the borrowed boat Chico came in third for twenty-one points.

It is still anybody's race as the victor is decided on points after five races.

Winnipeg, Oct. 11.—As western rugby schedules have been whittled down to the point where every contest is something of a local classic at least, a definite turning point in the autumn cares of four senior prairie unions will be reached to-morrow.

Critical battles will be waged all along the west's football frontier that are certain to do more than merely increase the tension. Two title races in Alberta and Saskatchewan may reach a point where excited fandom will have something to work on with regard to picking potential champions.

The following is the schedule: Alberta Union—University of Alberta at Calgary.

Saskatchewan Union—Moose Jaw at Saskatoon.

Manitoba Union—St. John at Tignea. Intercollegiate Union—University of Saskatchewan at University of Manitoba.

LAST BARRIER
Where the colorful on-rush of Calgary's triumphant Tigers has led them to an overwhelming choice for at least provincial honors, the burly Bengals will Saturday face what remains opposition there is in Alberta. A surprise drubbing last Saturday by Saskatoon has somewhat taken the edge from Alberta Varsity's challenge, but the Tigers are prepared to match blows with a worthy foe.

Both teams have conquered Edmonton once. A win for the mighty Jungle Kings will practically assure Calgary of its first Alberta title in years, though there is still a return contest at Edmonton to consider.

DESPERATE STAND
Saskatchewan will turn its eyes to Saskatoon, where the Quakers will make a desperate stand to evade being thrown into the rugby discard by Moose Jaw. Cut and beaten in their first effort at the Mill City, the Quakers must turn the tables and then trounce Regina Rough Riders twice to win championship recognition in Saskatchewan, a decidedly tall order.

With two promising combats here, Winnipeg fans are hesitating to decide whether the Saskatchewan-Manitoba Intercollegiate contest at Wesley Park will provide more thrills than the Tigers-St. Johns struggle at Carruthers Park.

WEST JUVENILES MEET TO-NIGHT

Members of the Victoria West, Division One, juvenile football team, are requested to attend an important meeting at 810 California Avenue this evening at 8 o'clock.

The team selected for to-morrow's game follows: Lund, Luttrell, T. Graves, A. Campbell, Rickerson, Drysdale, Colgate, Kennedy, Dwyer, Bell, W. Graves, Mutch and Storey.

All players must be on the field at 2:45 o'clock.

All-night Vigil By Bleacher Fans Was Unnecessary

Capacity Turn-out at Shibe Park to Welcome Conquering Athletics in First Home Appearance; Glass Taken From Windows by Timid House Owners Near Field; Gayety Lacking in Cubs' Camp; Those Unsuccessful in Securing Tickets Turn to Radio.

By ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Writer

Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Oct. 11.—The shift of the world's series scenery to-day brought the Athletics back to their home grounds with an enthusiastic home town crowd to cheer their dash to make it three straight over the Cubs.

It was not quite so cold or so windy as the second battle, or rather the second rout, of Chicago, but overcoats and blankets were just about as useful.

CLOWNS AT PLAY
Appropriate, too, was the preliminary football act of the perennial comedians, Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, but the biggest hit for the early birds in the outstands was the strikethrough pantomime by the laugh-making pair.

The bleacher crowd, after the customary all-night vigil by hundreds who could have done about as well for themselves by staying home for a good night's sleep, had not quite filled by noon the long stretch from the left field foul line to the centerfield corner of the park.

About 3,000 fans flocked into the dollar seats as the noisy advance guard of an expected capacity turnout of 35,000.

LIKE A SET-UP
There was a marked contrast between the two parks in the targets offered to the heavy hitters. The big double deck stand stretching all the way across the left field side of this park looked like a set-up for Jimmy Fox and Al Simmons, each of whom was able to locate more difficult home run spots in Wrigley Field.

The "bleachers" outside the walls of Shibe Park were just as impressive and more extraordinary than those in Chicago. Instead of closing two streets outside the park, as was done for the extra stands at Wrigley Field, Philadelphia erected a row of stands atop the roof of a block of houses on Twentieth Street facing right field.

It was an elaborate set-up, calculated to accommodate about 2,000 spectators. The builders were still rushing the final construction work at an hour before game time, with the stands already filled. Permission to erect them was a last-minute proposition as they had been barred at first by the department of public safety.

The glass was removed from the bay windows of the second floors to make room for additional standees as well as to prevent damage by the long range guns.

An automobile dealer placed a sign high on one of the houses reading: "5500 to the player that hits this sign with a fairly batted ball." Nothing like a fair ball could hit it, since it was opposite the right field scoreboard and more within rifle than batting range.

The A's—in new, white uniforms—trooped out before noon for a brisk workout.

ROMMEL HURT
Eddie Rommel was a batting practice chump, but he was laid low by a direct hit on the right leg from the bat of Jimmy Fox, the home run kid and boy hero of the first two games.

The Cubs, in gray traveling uniforms, put in the early appearance and seemed far from dejected, if not quite as peppy as the A's.

JUBILATION IN CITY
As the triumphant Athletics of Connie Mack rushed home from Chicago with two straight victories over the Cubs to present home town fandom, the jubilation of the warriors themselves leaped on ahead to the state old Quaker City. Everywhere, in the crowds on spacious Broad Street, the lobbies of hotels already jammed, business houses and knots of plain rosters on the street corners ran the same happy confidence in the American League champions.

With their backs literally lined up to the walls of the park, the grim and determined Chicago Cubs came into town with a small amiable crowd to greet them at the station. There was little gayety among Manager Joe McCarthy's warriors, and the tenseness of the situation showed in their tactlessness and bearing.

CUBS CONFIDENT
The fourth game will be played Saturday, and the fifth, if necessary, on Monday. The Cubs said there would be a fifth, sixth and even a seventh game, despite the smashing triumphs of the A's in the first two clashes in the Mid-East.

Joe McCarthy strode about with a mystic air among the National League champions, the sort of aloofness that might indicate either deep thought or sort of hangover shellshock from the roaring of the Athletics' big guns in Chicago. He refused to answer his men to pose for photographers.

RADIO'S ADVANTAGE
Although Philadelphia gave but passing attention to the arrival of the Cubs, saving enthusiasm for the coming home town heroes later, the series as a whole seemed to be on every mind. The talk was of nothing else, and the chief argument was the wisdom of baiting on for the precious pastebards, then sitting in a chilly ball yard as compared to the comforts of home beside the radio.

That part of Philadelphia fandom not boasting a share in the 40,000 available pastebards, has gone strictly radio.

Out at the ball park the finishing touches were put on in the playing field like a maid dusting before the arrival of company.

BLANKETS AND FIRES
Outside competitors for the 1,200 bleacher seats—available timed only shortly after midnight amid the usual scenes of blankets, rocking chairs and open fires. The line grew to a few hundred through the day.

STARS WIN FREE HITTING AFFAIR FROM MISSIONS

Coast League Baseball Playoff Series Now Stands at Two to One For Reds

San Francisco, Oct. 11.—Hollywood Stars came back with a bang yesterday, trounced the San Francisco Mission Reds 11-5 in the third game of the championship play-off for the Pacific Coast League pennant.

The Missions won the first two games. For two innings, the second-half winners of the split season, were held and by Herman Pillette, but from that time on it was a carnival of hits until the tall Mission right-hander, was yanked from the box in the seventh.

TWO HOMERS
Led by Cleo Carlyle, centre fielder, whose four hits included two home runs, a triple and single, the Stars pounded Pillette and Harry Karp for sixteen safeties. Carlyle's batting feat was only a little more spectacular than that of Shellenbach, winning pitcher, who hit a homer and singled twice to drive in three runs.

The score: R. H. E. Hollywood.....11 16 1 Mission.....5 12 3 Batteries—Shellenbach and Bassler; Pillette, Krause and Hoffman.

BANCROFT AND CAREY TO GO

Unconditional Release of Veterans Is Announced By Wilbert Robinson

New York, Oct. 11.—Official announcement of the unconditional release of Max Carey and Dave Bancroft by Manager Wilbert Robinson of the Brooklyn Robins was made yesterday at the office of the club.

Carey, veteran outfielder, had been with Brooklyn since 1926, when he was acquired from Pittsburgh. Of late he had been used chiefly in an advisory capacity and as coach.

Bancroft, one of the game's outstanding shortstops, came to the Robins in 1926 from Boston, where he had managed the Braves for five years.

Women's Golf Crown At Stake In Old Country

Broadstone, Eng., Oct. 11.—Molly
Gourlay of Cambridge Heath, 1926 title-holder, and Diana Fishwick of North Foreland, will meet to-day in the final round of the English women's golf championship.

In the semi-finals yesterday, Miss Gourlay defeated Wanda Morgan of Shrub Hill, 4 and 3, and Miss Fishwick eliminated Mrs. Herbert (Edith Leitch) Guedalla of Walton Heath, 2 and 1.

PIRONE WINS
Cleveland, Oct. 11.—Paul Pirone,
Cleveland welterweight, won a decision over Jack Zivic, of Pittsburgh, in six rounds here last night.

Five special concerts at the Empress Hotel this season, November 14, December 11, January 23, March 28, April 17.

Bobby Jones on Golf

Golf clubs have changed a lot since the days of young Tom Morris, not only in an improved construction, but in the number of kinds manufactured. The modern golfer can now obtain a club for almost every five or ten yards of distance which he needs to transverse. With a complete set of clubs it is rarely necessary to play a half shot with any of them, for it is nearly always possible to find one whose normal range is approximately right for the shot to be played.

Most of the better players nowadays carry a bagful of clubs—at least three woods and including the putter, but that is the usual allotment. When we think what a weight these make it is small wonder that Watt's Gun's St. Andrews caddy, without consulting his employer, left five of Mr. Gun's favorite clubs behind when they started out upon an afternoon round.
"Ye have no need for so many" was all Watt was ever able to get out of him.

USE FOR EACH CLUB
I must confess that I am particularly guilty in this matter of breaking the caddy's back. In the set which I used at Pebble Beach there were fourteen clubs, all of them full weight, as my caddy will testify. There were four woods—driver, brassie and two spoons, and ten irons—number one, two, mashie-iron, number four,
mashie, spade, mashie-niblick, public, approach club, and putter. That seems a lot of excess baggage, but the strange

Rugby's Iron Man —By Jimmy Thompson

The "Iron Man" of Regina was the name given to Eddie James of Regina Roughriders, when he helped the Pats win the Junior Rugby championship and then lined up with the Roughriders to win the Senior Dominion championship from the Hamilton Tigers. Western Canada gridiron experts and fans in general consider Eddie, 195-pound half-back of the western senior champions, to be the greatest plunger in football in their part of the country. Eddie started with the Pats last season and was the big factor in carrying them to the Canadian Junior championship and by special permission he was one of the four Pats allowed to play for the Roughriders in the Dominion senior final.
Under Al Ritchie's tutelage James developed rapidly and besides being a great offensive player he distinguished himself last year by making eight successive tackles in a junior game. When this big youngster hits 'em they stay hit and his specialty is breaking out of a crowd when he appears to be stopped dead.
James is in for a great year and in the first Saskatchewan senior game he proceeded to strut his usual stuff in Regina's 18-0 victory over Moose Jaw Maroons.

thing is that on each round I found use for every club. That in addition to being some justification for myself is the highest compliment I could pay Pebble Beach as a testing layout.
Only a really good course will afford opportunity to use every club in the bag.

An explanation of the reason for two spoons may be of some interest. It has proved helpful to me, so there may be someone else who like the idea. The brassie which he differs little from no loft. The spoon, except that it is not quite so deep. The thinner face makes it easier to loft the ball from a fairway lie.
This gives me a very powerful fairway club, when the ball is lying well enough to permit its use.

SPOON LOFTED
But with a club of this kind it is possible to play a shot from a cuppy or very close lie. So, next in order, my spoon is lofted very little more than an ordinary brassie. This serves to get the maximum length from unfavorable lies. It was only this season that I added the other spoon
—a lofted one. I found that my combination worked well enough within certain limits, but the big spoon which I carried was worse than useless for playing a spared shot. The loft was so little, that hitting even hard enough to assure control sent the ball quite a distance. The more lofted spoon enables me to avoid pressing the number one iron.

EVANS CARRIES FEW
Chick Evans is the one first-class golfer who has stuck to what have become old-fashioned ideas. Chick's bag in California contained three woods—the regulation driver, brassie and spoon—; a strong iron, a more lofted iron, closely resembling a mashie, a niblick and a putter. Seven clubs in all and in reality only three irons.
How he does it is hard to say, for he never seems to lack the shot called for. Possibly he figures that it is better to know a few clubs well than to have a slight acquaintance with a great number.

It has been said that the less expert players ought to carry fewer clubs until he can learn to play with those he has. That may be true, but I can't help feeling that the present-day assortment makes the game easier for him. He has not the highly sensitive touch of the more experienced man and it ought to be easier to learn to play many clubs in the same way
than a few clubs in very many ways.
It takes less time to acquaint oneself with a few pieces of wood and iron than it goes to acquire the skill of a Chick Evans.

BLACKFISH

An article in The Victoria Daily Times, October 5, headed "Blackfish of Monster Size After Salmon," recalls an incident that happened in the year 1908, over twenty years ago, when three friends from Victoria to foot yawl sailed from Victoria to Campbell River to test their luck fishing for a "Tee" to equal, if not better, the great salmon caught by Sir Richard Musgrave with rod and line many years ago, a fish that weighed some seventy odd pounds, a cast of which may be seen in the British Columbia Provincial Museum.
Shakespeare wrote: "Fear not my truth, the most of my wit is plain and true." Truth is stranger than fiction, and will out. A truthful fisherman (if there is such an animal) hesitates to tell the story for fear of ridicule. The journal of the voyage north, while replete with interesting experiences of "three men in a boat," is not needed, sufficient to say that the yacht, under sail, entered the south end of Discovery Passage on a dark August night after 10 o'clock, where the light air left the ship to drift on a favoring tide. A little later

Playing Them As They Lie

It does not take long to tell the story, but the fight lasted over an hour, and the dinghy was within sight of the narrows when the fight ended.
It is hard to guess what would have happened if the line had not parted.
The fish practically had charge of the boat, and the crew were unable to move with safety as long as No. 1 held on to the fish.

CHICAGO GETS DECISION IN THIRD GAME

locate the ball properly on Wednesday, and he continued his good work today with two hits out of three times at bat, including a triple and a single.

Guy Bush, while he was hit more or less easily by the A's, seemed to be at his best in the pinches. As early as the second inning he fanned Earnshaw when Dykes and Boley were on bases. Dykes attempted to steal home on the third strike and would have scored if the ball had not been across the plate.

MISS GOOD CHANCE

Again in the third, the Athletics filled the bases. Haas and Cochrane singled and Woody English made his fourth error of the series, permitting Fox to get to first. Bush then forced Miller to send a high fly to Stephenson. In the seventh inning with Bishop and Cochrane on bases, Simmons and Fox went out the former on a long fly and the latter on an easy grounder.

Altogether during the game the Athletics had ten men left on bases against only six for the Cubs.

Following is the play by play account of the game.

FIRST INNING

Cubs—McMillan up. The crowd stood in silence for a minute as a tribute to the late Miller Huggins. McMillan fanned, swinging at a fast out. English went out on a roller, Bishop to Fox. Hornsby up. He got a big hand, he swung hard and fouled. Hornsby fanned on a low curve. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left on.

Athletics—Bishop went out on a fly to Grimm in short right field. Haas up. A new ball was put into play. Haas singled through the box. Cochrane up. Bush threw to first. Cochrane singled to Stephenson in short left. Haas ran back to first. Simmons hit to English and Haas was forced at second, English to Hornsby. No runs, one hit, no errors.

SECOND INNING

Cubs—Wilson hit a three-bagger far into centre. Cuyler out. Boley to Fox. Wilson held third. Stephenson up. Wilson went out at the plate on Bishop's throw on Stephenson's roller. Grimm struck out, swinging at a low curve. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left on.

Athletics—Fox fanned. Miller went out on a long fly to Cuyler. Dykes up. He was given a hand. Dykes singled to centre. Boley singled to right and Dykes ran to third and Boley took second on the throw-in. The play was close, Cuyler making a good throw. McMillan dropped the ball, but probably would not have had Dykes anywhere. Earnshaw up. Dykes scored on a steal-home. Boley went to third. The umpire called Dykes out as the Cubs ran in. It was found that the ball on which Dykes dashed home was a third strike on Earnshaw, retiring the side. No runs, two hits, no errors, two left on.

THIRD INNING

Cubs—Taylor filed to Dykes in short left. Bush fanned. McMillan up. Fox had to run to the stands trying to catch a foul. McMillan hit a high fly to Bishop. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left on.

Athletics—Bishop hit a high fly to Grimm. Haas hit the ball in self-defence, strike two called. Haas singled to right. He started for second, but came back. Cochrane singled into the crowd in right. Haas stopping at second. Simmons out on an infield fly to McMillan. Fox up. Bush bluffed a throw to second. Fox was safe when English fumbled. A grounder. The bases were filled. English has made four errors in the series. Miller went out on a fly to Stephenson. No runs, two hits, one error, three left on.

FOURTH INNING

Cubs—English up. He was cheered by the crowd. English was out on a foul to Fox. Hornsby struck out. It was his second whiff of the game. Wilson singled to right. His fifth straight hit of the series. Cuyler was called out on strikes. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left on.

Athletics—Dykes hit a fly to Wilson in centre. Boley singled to centre, his second hit of the game. Earnshaw up. He sacrificed with a bunt. McMillan to Grimm, sending Boley to second. Bishop got a pass to first. Haas went out on a fly to Cuyler, in short right field. No runs, one hit, no errors. Two left on.

FIFTH INNING

Cubs—Stephenson went out. Bishop to Fox. Grimm filed to Bishop, who made a neat running catch in short right. Taylor up. The crowd gave Taylor the laugh as he missed at two successive batters fanned, swinging at the third strike. Seven strikeouts for Earnshaw in five innings. No runs, no hits, no errors. None left on.

Athletics—Cochran hit to English and beat the throw to first for a hit. The catcher ran down very fast. Simmons lines out to Wilson, who ran only a few feet for the drive. Cochrane remained at first. Fox hit a roller and was out. Bush to Grimm. Cochrane going to second. Miller up. Cochrane scored on Miller's single to left, the first run of the game. Dykes up. Miller went to second on the throw in. Miller was caught at second, Taylor to Hornsby. One run, two hits, no errors.

SIXTH INNING

Cubs—Bush walked on four balls. McMillan popped to Cochrane on a foul bunt back of the plate. English hit to Dykes and was safe at first when Dykes fumbled for an error. Bush took second. Hornsby up. Bush scored when Hornsby singled to left. English went to second. The score was tied. Wilson went out. Bishop to Fox, both runners advancing. It was a smart play. Cuyler up. Cochrane had to lunge for a foul off the umpire's shins. English and Hornsby scored at Cuyler's single to centre. Cuyler stopped at first as there was no throw to the plate. Stephenson up. Earnshaw threw to first. Stephenson filed out to Miller in right. Three runs, two hits, one error. One left on.

Athletics—Dykes filed out to Stephenson in deep left. Boley fouled out to Grimm behind the plate. Earnshaw fanned on a low curve. No runs, no hits, no error. None left on.

SEVENTH INNING

Cubs—Grimm went out. Earnshaw to Fox. Taylor filed to Miller, in short right. Bush fanned on an outside pitch. No runs, no hits, no error. None left on.

Athletics—Bishop singled to right. Haas up. Haas out on a foul to Taylor back of the plate. Cochrane up. Bishop was chased back to second by Bush. Cochrane got a walk. Simmons hit a long fly to Wilson and both runners advanced after the catch. It was a tremendous catch, but high in the air. Fox went out. Taylor to Grimm on a slow roller, in front of the

EIGHTH INNING

Cubs—McMillan hit to Boley and was thrown out to Fox. English bunted a foul. It was strike two. English fanned, swinging for the third strike. Hornsby hit into right field for two bases. Wilson walked. Cuyler fouled out to Fox. No runs, one hit, no errors. Two left on.

Athletics—Miller hit to English and was thrown out at first. Dykes filed out to Stephenson almost against the left field stands. Boley filed to Cuyler, who stood in his tracks and caught it. No runs, no hits, no errors. None left on.

NINTH INNING

Cubs—Stephenson hit a two-bagger to left. Grimm hit to Earnshaw and was thrown out at first. Stephenson held second. Taylor lifted a fly to Bishop, in short right centre. Bush was applauded. Bush fanned swinging. No runs, one hit, no errors. One left on.

Athletics—Haas batted for Earnshaw. Haas hit. It is not Haas, it is Summa. Summa hit a long fly to Wilson and both runners advanced after the catch. It was a tremendous catch, but high in the air. Fox went out. Taylor to Grimm on a slow roller, in front of the

TWO PREMIERS WILL DISCUSS PEACE MOVES

Expected MacDonald Will Converse With King on Varied Topics

New York, Oct. 11 (By Ray Brown, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—There is some conjecture respecting the nature of the discussions which will take place between Premier Ramsay MacDonald and Premier King when they meet in Ottawa.

Presumably one of the purposes for which the Prime Minister of Great Britain will go to Ottawa is to convey to the Dominion the greetings of his Government. On the other hand, there are no doubt matters which he wishes to take up with Mr. King.

It has been suggested Mr. MacDonald will discuss with Mr. King some matters respecting the peace programme. He has so much at heart. Canada is not directly interested in naval disarmament, although her indirect interest is very great. The demilitarization of the port of Halifax has been mentioned as a subject which Mr. MacDonald may feel like talking about. Both Prime Ministers are strong supporters of the peace movement.

Mr. King crossed the Atlantic to sign the Briand-Kellogg pact, and he has always advocated measures which would tend toward peace.

British unemployment, the proposed Empire economic conference and British immigration are subjects which may find a place in the Ottawa conversation. It is anticipated Mr. MacDonald will refer to some of them in the speech he will make in the Dominion capital.

LAST APPEALS IN AUSTRALIAN ELECTION TEST

Melbourne, Australia, Oct. 11 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).

Everything is in readiness for Australia's second general election within a year. Polling will take place to-morrow with the chief protagonists, Right Hon. Stanley Bruce, Prime Minister, and James Henry Scullin, Labor leader, confident of the outcome of the battle precipitated by the Government's intention of abolishing the Federal arbitration court and leaving settlement of most labor disputes to the state courts. "The Government has always stood for the principle of industrial regulation and peace in industry, continuity and expansion in employment and the highest of industrial wages and conditions," declared Premier Bruce in his final appeal.

The Labor leader said the Labor Party fervently pledged itself to give the Australian democracy earnest, honest and zealous service.

Mine Union Changes Are Being Fought

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 11—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, has suspended the charter of District 12, comprising the State of Illinois and has set up a provisional district organization to carry on the activities of the organization.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 11—A riot squad of the Springfield police department was called to the headquarters of the Illinois Mine Workers to-day to prevent provisional officers appointed by International President Lewis from taking possession of force.

Anglican W.A. Holds Election At Convention

Montreal, Oct. 11—Mrs. Gilbert Forrester, Montreal, was re-elected by acclamation as president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada at yesterday's session of the annual convention.

Cubs—McMillan hit to Boley and was thrown out to Fox. English bunted a foul. It was strike two. English fanned, swinging for the third strike. Hornsby hit into right field for two bases. Wilson walked. Cuyler fouled out to Fox. No runs, one hit, no errors. Two left on.

Athletics—Miller hit to English and was thrown out at first. Dykes filed out to Stephenson almost against the left field stands. Boley filed to Cuyler, who stood in his tracks and caught it. No runs, no hits, no errors. None left on.

Athletics—Haas batted for Earnshaw. Haas hit. It is not Haas, it is Summa. Summa hit a long fly to Wilson and both runners advanced after the catch. It was a tremendous catch, but high in the air. Fox went out. Taylor to Grimm on a slow roller, in front of the

SUPPLIES SENT

Within two or three days, fair weather permitting, transportation of supplies to Stony Rapids, supply base in Northern Saskatchewan, will have been completed. This will release three or four transport machines for the search from Baker Lake. Other pilots have their machines under repair at The Pas, Man., and other northern points.

"Punch" Dickens, who has covered more ground than any other of the hunters, is in Edmonton, officials report, but will rejoin the search at the freeze-up. He has flown about 4,500 miles. Optimistic belief that the "in-between" season, when flying is impossible in the north, may terminate within ten days was supported by weather officials to-day. They expressed belief the present period of low pressure over the Barren Lands might be expected to end at the close of this week, bringing colder weather and a complete freeze-up. This would permit the use of skis—planes instead of pontoons—and allow the searchers to hop off immediately.

may possibly return here in connection with the matter.

DOING NO WORK

According to reports, the Doukhobors will neither work nor eat, and a serious situation is arising. As their action constitutes a breach of prison discipline, the matter comes under the jurisdiction of the provincial police superintendent.

The Doukhobors were sentenced early in September and were transferred to Oakalla from Nelson by special train and motorbus.

Under their creed the prisoners are not permitted to eat meat, and they have observed that rule in prison, consuming only vegetables and fruit.

It is stated the Doukhobors have eaten nothing since Monday night when their leaders apparently decided on the hunger strike method of seeking release.

New Services And Industries Help Victoria

Itemized Report Presented at Quarterly Meeting This Afternoon of Chamber of Commerce Greeted With Enthusiasm; Thanks Extended to Recently Formed Port Development Committee.

Many important matters in relation to the development of shipping in Victoria form the subject of comment in the quarterly report of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, which was presented at a well-attended membership meeting this afternoon.

Activities of the recently-formed port committee under Capt. J. W. Troup are dealt with, and Ogdan Point pier improvements, new pilotage laws, the C.N.R. announcement of new steamers for the triangular run, the remodeling of the Princess Victoria and the opening of the cold storage plant are noted as among the many signs of development.

Referring to the work of the port committee the report says: "Your port development committee under the able chairmanship of Captain J. W. Troup, has been very active. Representations were made to the Dominion Government which have resulted in contracts being awarded for the construction of a pier and wharf and the placing of dolphins and fenders at the Ogdan Point piers.

"This work is now being carried on, and upon its completion it is expected that the objections made by the different shipping companies docking vessels at Ogdan Point will be entirely removed, resulting in considerable activity and development in shipping at that point.

PILOTAGE LAWS
"Your port committee investigated the new pilotage laws and regulations and has recommended that several changes be made by the Dominion Government in order to remove apparent discriminations against our port.

"It is felt by the committee that the natural advantages, due to the geographical location of Victoria have not been given sufficient recognition when adopting the scale of pilotage fees. Negotiations are now being carried on between the Dominion Government and your port committee in this connection.

SHIPPING PROMINENT
In the following list of actual developments now proceeding shipping takes pride of place.

The completion of the new wing of the Empress Hotel by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, and the advertising which that company is doing in connection therewith will greatly assist in the development of the tourist traffic to Victoria.

The improvements at the Ogdan Point piers by the Dominion Government and the Canadian National Railway will offer additional facilities for shipping and port development.

The announcement by the Canadian National Railway of their intention to place two new large ferry steamers next summer in operation between Victoria and Vancouver and Seattle.

The remodeling of the steamer Princess Victoria into an automobile ferry service, and the announcement that that vessel will operate next summer between Victoria and Seattle.

The opportunity for development due to the completion of the Cold Storage Plant and the other port facilities.

"Taking all of these matters into consideration, your directors have every reason to feel very optimistic that during the next year Victoria will pass through an era of prosperity which has never been exceeded in its history," the report concludes.

ENDURANCE FLIERS FAIL

Chicago, Oct. 11.—The "Chicago We Will" landed at the Sky Harbor air port a few minutes before 7 o'clock this morning just after it had passed its 254th hour in the air. The end of the flight was made necessary by inability to refuel the plane because of a dense fog.

Howard Angus Kennedy has asked for such information.

The programme for the meeting consisted of a review of books dealing with various methods of trans-Canada travel, Mr. Carmichael dealing with Paul Kane's "Wanderings of an Artist, 1855-8." Donald Fraser read interesting extracts from "Grant's 'Ocean' to Ocean," Halifax, to Victoria, to illustrate the exploratory journey undertaken by Sanford Fleming in the interests of the C.P.R. Mr. Pemberton told of the meeting of the eastern party with the party from the west, Moberly's party.

Mrs. M. H. Rathbone read a well-prepared paper on the journey of Lord and Lady Dufferin, "From East to West." Donald A. Fraser dealt comprehensively with W. S. Cairns' "Journey Around the World," in which impressions of Victoria were minute and of great interest. A Motor Tour Across Canada," W. T. Wilby, was also briefly reviewed by Mrs. Ebbel-Canavan. Mr. Pemberton was thanked by the president for his interesting programme which showed the remarkable developments in transcontinental travel, and which had given so valuable insight into the early history of the country, while reviewing the works of early authors on Canadian topics.

NAVAL OFFICER IS SPEAKER AT PRINCE RUPERT

Commander L. W. Murray Addresses Rotary Club on Naval Affairs

Prince Rupert, Oct. 11—"Canada should be as proud of her navy as of her other resources," declared Commander L. W. Murray of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who arrived here aboard the destroyer the Rotary Club at its address on the same day. The commander explained the navy was a national resource because it was natural for the people of Canada to be proud of it. The country ranked third in the world with its mercantile marine.

NEW DESTROYERS
Speaking of the new two destroyers which were being built for Canada, one of which was named the Steena, Commander Murray said they were the very latest thing, equal to any that were being built. Destroyers had to be small, compact, and they were they did, but the peculiar work would have a little more beam to enable them to combat the ice conditions of the east coast in winter. Also they had to be heated and shower baths were provided, which the British Admiralty did not usually think necessary in its vessels.

VOLUNTEER RESERVE
Commander Murray explained how the putting down of two and a half million dollars to one and a half million after the war had proved a good thing for the country, because it had resulted in the starting of the volunteer reserve, which had proved such marked success and had advertised the navy throughout the country. There were to-day companies or half companies of the reserve in most of the principal cities of Canada. The navy, the speaker considered, was entitled to as much boasting as any other business in Canada.

RECORD OF CANADIANS
When the Canadian officers and men went to Great Britain to train, as they did to-day, since the scrapping of the training college in this country, they were treated with every respect and many were given good positions, he said. Two Canadians were commanders of destroyers in the British navy. Two had been on the battleship Tiger, one as navigating officer and the other as torpedo officer. One was an officer aboard the light cruiser Durban. On two occasions Canadians had led the list of officers examined, two taking second and one third. An equally good record had been made by the men as by the officers.

ROTARY EVENT AT REVELSTOKE

Mayor Needham welcomed the visitors on behalf of the city. While Captain P. Fitzsimmons, M.P., for Kootenai-Slocan, also extended greetings.

WIDER CHOICE FOR RHODES SCHOLARS

Montreal, Oct. 11.—An important change is being made in the administration of the Rhodes Scholarships this year. The trustees, working under power given them by the Rhodes Trust Act, 1929, announcing that in future scholars will be allowed to spend the third year of their scholarship at any university in Great Britain, and in special cases at any university on the continent of Europe, the Dominions or the United States, other than the country of origin, on conditions approved by the authorities concerned.

AUDITORIUM IS SEEN AS NEED

Hon. R. R. Bruce Tells Chamber of Commerce Hall Is Necessary

Hon. R. R. Bruce this afternoon expressed the opinion that one of the most pressing needs of Victoria to-day is a large, modern auditorium. In a brief address, at the quarterly meeting of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, in which he thanked President P. H. Fowler for his labors as delegate from Canada to the International Chamber of Commerce congress at Amsterdam, His Honor remarked that Mr. Fowler's report of his activities was exceedingly modest. Mr. Fowler's views had appeared to all present, especially as Canada had become the fifth nation in value of exports. As Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia he desired to express a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Fowler for his successful labors at Amsterdam on behalf of Canada.

"We hope, in the next five years, to be a nation with a population as great as that of the Old Country. We must look to the future, not to the present," the Lieutenant-Governor said.

NEED AUDITORIUM
The Lieutenant-Governor congratulated George I. Warren upon the report he presented of the last quarter's activities. He was especially glad to note that the Chamber of Commerce was considering a proposal for erection of a public auditorium, which he believed a most pressing need.

The musical programme was provided by an orchestra organized by the Junior Chamber.

Much interest was taken in the gold medal struck to mark the Fifth Congress of the International Chamber of Commerce, held at Amsterdam, brought back by President P. H. Fowler and circulated among the members.

BOYS' CLASSES AT Y.M.C.A. GRADED

A new process of grading has been introduced into the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium classes this season and promises to add greatly to the speed of the young boys in their different classes. In future all members of the junior classes will be selected according to the different grades of physical fitness. The different grades of physical fitness will be grouped in "A," "B," "C" and "D" sections. As the members of the lower groups improve they will be admitted to the higher sections. In this manner boys of exceptional aptitude in the gymnasium will not be required to remain in the classes with the less adept.

Further organization work has been completed in the different boys' clubs at the "Y" and, according to an announcement by Vivian Shoemaker, the boys' club leaders have been secured for the different organizations in the institution.

With increased membership in all departments the winter should see keen competition among the different groups.

In the hobby division an interesting game of camera fanciers will be organized. Under the supervision of George Loft the lens in this group will learn picture taking, developing, printing and enlarging.

GREAT LAKES VESSELS CARRY GRAIN CARGOES

Wheat Flows Into Calgary, Moose Jaw and Other Elevators on Plains

Winnipeg, Oct. 11.—Indicating the increasing effectiveness of the new railway car-ratoning system at prairie points, the Government grain elevators at Calgary and Moose Jaw to-day were piled high toward capacity. Aided by substantial shipments eastward, storage at the head of the Great Lakes had dropped slightly, and prairie elevators, in the aggregate, still offered storage space for about 100,000,000 bushels of grain.

A margin of less than half a million bushels remains in the Government elevators at Moose Jaw and Calgary, according to figures issued to-day. The former, with a capacity of 3,500,000 bushels, now holds 3,250,000 bushels, while the latter is within 250,000 bushels of its 2,500,000-bushel capacity. Storage at Edmonton Government elevator bins, however, are below their rated marks.

AIRPORT PLANS BEFORE COUNCIL

Approval By Ottawa Conveyed to Mayor and Aldermen This Afternoon

Informal Discussion on Ten-year Street and Works Plan May Follow

A report from the industrial committee of the City Council, giving word of the official approval of the city's plans for a public seaplane base here, will be laid before a special meeting of the mayor and aldermen this afternoon. Notification from Ottawa that the plans had been sanctioned was conveyed to the committee this week by Squadron Leader J. L. McLeod, in command of the Dominion Air Station at Jericho Beach.

An informal discussion on the policy of providing for street and other improvements, based on the estimated requirements of the city for the next ten years, is expected to take place, following the drafting of a list of expected expenditures by City Engineer F. M. Preston, at the request of the council recently.

The special meeting was set for to-day, to take the place of a regular meeting next week, which has been cancelled, as five members of the council will be attending the Union of B.C. Municipalities party at Harrison Hot Springs.

Special to The Times
Nanaimo, Oct. 11.—An inquest was held yesterday afternoon to determine the cause of the death of Yaluchiro Kitanmura, who was fatally injured at the Straits Lumbers Company's mill at Nanose Wednesday afternoon, when he was pinned by a log against an upright and met almost instant death.

Four ribs were broken and his lungs were crushed as the log struck him. He was employed as edgerman and had resided in this Province for the last twenty-five years.

The jury, under Coroner Hickling, returned a verdict of "accidental death, without blame to anyone."

The funeral takes place to-day.

SNEAK THIEVES

To the Editor:—I hope you will find space in your paper for this letter of protest against the petty thieves, who make a practice of stealing things from the Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday night, my hat was placed under a coat quite safely, as I thought, and when I returned to find it on my surprise found that in exchange for a new blue hat I was left with a dirty, faded and cheap hat, which was even tucked in my coat.

Now I don't think for a minute that this could have been a mistake, as I have advertised in your paper, also The Colonist, for the return of same. I am not a guest at the dance, but a waitress, and I cannot afford a new hat very often. I think it is high time that at dances someone should be posted to watch these petty thieves, who when caught should be made an example of.

OUR MENTAL PATIENTS

To the Editor:—In The Colonist of to-day, the 10th inst., the police report has the following among its numbers: "Three persons of unusual character, a few these persons are criminals of unsound mind, the criminal jail cells are no place for them. We seem to plead in vain for a psychopathic ward and mental and nerve clinic thereby releasing the majority who are hastily incarcerated from a perpetual (in most cases) sad fate; oftentimes caused by this crude and cruel and generally deceptive beginning in the preliminary stages of borderline cases. With the new building the medical and dental fraternities contemplate, we hope this work will not be forgotten; also a reasonable out-patient department, with the working class can meet. Surely these things would be of far greater value than experimenting rooms for rats and rabbits as announced."

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sour, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial stimulants are not needed in such cases. The only real remedy is to lay aside all dietetic and medicinal restrictions from any drugstore like Bismarck Magnesia and take a teaspoonful of powder or capsules of Bismarck Magnesia, or the same laying aside all dietetic and medicinal restrictions. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no gas, flatulence, or pain. Bismarck Magnesia is a natural mineral salt, is non-toxic (in pure form, not as a laxative or in milk) is harmless to the stomach, efficient to take and is the most efficient for the purpose. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

three months when the battle of "big coal" was fought. The coal forces on Vancouver Island has been waged.

The subject is reviewed in the quarterly report as one of the most far-reaching and important activities of the year.

"Your board held several meetings and after considerable investigation, deliberation, and discussion, decided to recommend that the Government should make a grant to the company to apply for favorable consideration of the application of the British Columbia Electric Railway Company for the rights to develop the water power at Campbell River."

"With this request we coupled the following recommendations:

"That power development of Campbell River be commenced immediately, and that the Government grant be ready for operation within three years.

"That the electric power developed at Campbell River should be available to the whole of Vancouver Island, and fairly distributed according to the several needs.

"That the power rates on Vancouver Island from the B.C. Electric Railway Company after a reasonable time have been developed, shall be no more than those in force on the British Columbia Mainland from the B.C. Electric system there.

"It is gratifying to note that the Government has already taken action and has decided to grant the B.C. Electric Railway Company the rights to survey and develop the water power at Campbell River, and to grant the company with certain conditions specified."

There you have in brief the form of the International Chamber of Commerce. Broadly speaking, its whole work is towards establishing stable relations between countries, in accordance with the axiom that the essential element in world economic reconstruction is the removal of all dispensable barriers to the flow of capital and goods between countries. This embraces the following:

- 'To restore and improve the mechanism of international exchange of goods and products;
- 'To remove, as far as possible, the economic causes of international conflict
- trade, and thus increase general prosperity;
- 'To reduce the barriers which hinder the development of international trade; and thus increase general prosperity;
- 'To express the views of the business world on the great questions which affect international trade relations;
- 'To work towards uniformity of commercial practice and of laws governing business transactions;
- 'To realize the permanent basis necessitated by the economic interdependence of the modern world;
- 'To act as international arbitrators.

In the above you have a wide range of activities, and how much this emphasizes the importance of the work. An exhaustive study not only of the resolutions brought down but also of the reports furnished by the standing committees would have shown the world to mention that the Congress was very different in construction from the one of 1906. The latter would have been a mass of men, conspicuous by their absence, and such shortness as occurred were at the opening of the session. The latter was a quiet. The rest of the week was taken up with open debate at the various group meetings, proceeding concurrently with the work of the committees. The delegates all being leading men in their own countries—and, believe me, it was a noble gathering—their work was of the highest quality. The work and work they did.

To turn back to my subject, the Congress was a meeting of men who were not only men of the highest foreign traders or engaged in any foreign work whatever will realize the great importance of some of the matters that were brought up and forming part of resolutions.

Thus we had a very strong resolution working for the enforcement of the principle of uniformity in the matter of lading, one form throughout, uniformity regarding conditions of documentary letters of credit (which, incidentally, has been a subject convergent in their different countries of origin), through bills of lading, uniformity in nomenclature of goods for Customs, the removal of all unnecessary formalities connected with Customs requirements, the abolition or lessening of restrictions on sleeping additional charges on rail transport, the abolition of services rendered, condemnation of unfair and unfair commercial practices and a request to the National Conference to make the necessary recommendations to their home government to effect legislation in this connection; flag discrimination; elimination of discrimination in the rates of indemnity, inland waterways, telephone and telegraph service, five-digit codes, postal prohibitions and postal regulations, discrimination in the rates of carriage, import and export prohibitions and restrictions, most favored nation clause, treatment of foreigners, international agreements, international settlements, movement of capital, international relations, industrial statistics, the question of keeping International exhibitions and fairs within economic bounds.

"One of the fundamental aims of the International Chamber of Commerce proclaimed in its constitution is 'to promote peace and cordial relations among nations.'"

"One of the most cherished ideals of the business men of the world has always been the preservation of permanent peace and the settlement of all differences between nations by means of conciliation and arbitration."

INTERESTING FEATURES

Two interesting features injected themselves into the picture of the Congress, and perhaps will go as far as anything to show the use of this International body. The representatives of the United States extended an invitation to various prominent men of the different Nationalities to discuss with them the proposed tariff reforms in their country. Those attending spoke earnestly and to the point, with the net result that the United States delegates have been able to return to their own land with the considered views of other important nations. The Chamber, Dr. Pirelli, a strong representation were present from the Chinese side. The Chamber might be able to co-operate in the economic restoration of China by making a specific study of questions affecting trade in and with that country. The Chamber might also be able to prove to be helpful with that subject in view. A plenary session was held when, the political problem of the extraterritoriality interfering, the Chamber decided to continue to work on that question, but that no resolution should be passed unless it established the immediate necessity of abolishing extra-territoriality. The Chamber should not, of course, agree to this, and it was finally decided that the Chamber should not continue its effort to achieve the special problem of China. The Chamber's next session will be held in China, and will be formed at an early date with a view to its operation generally in the work of the International

It would be very little use to pass resolutions unless there existed some body of men, fitted with the necessary knowledge and authority to give them a few facts as to this. Each national committee forwards such representations to its government with such suggestions as it may think fit. It then thinks fit and proper. In this you have the direct action of the International Chamber. The indirect, of course, is the influence of those who are all influential men within their own countries and can bring enormous weight to bear upon matters of importance. This is the mark of approval of the International Chamber of Commerce. In this way there is a direct avenue of approach to governments and business organizations, which at times can be more effective than action through the usual diplomatic channels.

Through its members the International Chamber of Commerce is very closely connected with the economic, financial and trade sections of the League of Nations, and these sections, as time goes along, will have more and more to do with the International Chamber for guidance and control its representatives in an advisory capacity. Indeed, it is only through the International Chamber of Commerce that industry and commerce have the opportunity of making their voice heard at the International

Now as to the size of the Congress and its composition, thirty-nine different nationalities were represented, and a large number of countries had very large representations. The following list has 180 delegates, the United States had 150, Great Britain 100, Holland 100, Italy 0, France 75, and in addition forty other international organizations were represented by special invitation.

It is impossible to analyze all the different delegations, but in order to get the quality and the weight behind the Congress, I will try to attempt to make a few words to analyze the British delegation. It consisted of the most prominent men from seventy organizations, such as The Association of General Manufacturers, Agricultural Engineers, British Bankers' Association, British Exporters' Federation, Chamber of Shipping of the United Kingdom, Corporation of Lloyds, Federation of Cotton Merchants, Liverpool Cotton Association, Liverpool Chamber of Commerce Association, Manchester Cotton Association, and so on, which brought out men like Sir John Sandeman Allen, Sir Allan Garnett Anderson, Sir John Gifford, Sir Geoffrey Burke, Mr. Arthur Colegate, Mr. Robert Dumoulin, Mr. R. S. Fraser, Mr. J. de V. Leigh, Sir George Palsin, Sir John W. Wells, Mr. H. James Yates, Sir Hon. Lord Melchett, each of whom had extensive knowledge of his respective industries behind him. In addition to this, there were British associate members, all of erty I had in preparing this report would like to quote you an extract in the London Times of July 12: "Of the 1,200 and more delegates to the International Chamber of Commerce Congress who left Amsterdam Sunday, only a few can have carried away a clear picture of all the work which was done last week. These biennial congresses of the International Chamber are now on a scale which makes it difficult to reconcile the two aims of the congress.

the first session of American tariff commissioners in London. The American Chamber of Commerce delegates could hardly have come to Europe at the present time without hearing something on that subject. It was distinctly 'in camera' by a limited circle of persons, and no public decisions were made, but full advantage was taken of the opportunity to explain the America point of view and to impress upon the Americans the importance of the tariff question at the latest tariff-making projects of the United States. Great satisfaction has been expressed at this new proof of the value of the International Chamber of Commerce as a clearing house for frank opinions and exchanges, face to face and without malice.

"Perhaps not the least important in the work of the International Chamber is the part it must play as a factor in the peace of the world. Here we have an International Council of all the leading nations, meeting four times a year in conference in Paris in a contact of good faith, goodwill and a common purpose. In addition to this there are biennial congresses meeting in different cities in the world, where large delegations of different nationalities indulge in friendly intercourse and association, and these men who come together at these periods are the strong commercial life blood of general atmosphere of the congress. The British and the American delegations were the only ones who showed a charming hostility on the banks of one of the innumerable canals. The other delegates were spread throughout the city in different hotels. The Dutch and the German delegations, the Colonial Institute, a tremendous building of white and black marble throughout the interior, with an enormous hall, the centre of the rotunda was a circle of delegates, and young girls behind it, each of them in a uniform, and every delegate had within that circle his own private box, where he received his guests, invitations, etc. were distributed. The American delegate's badge corresponded with the number of his box. I will never forget the first morning when we obtained our own badges.

There, 1,200 in all, gathered together in the big rotunda, everyone of them talking a different language, friends greeting each other; in fact, I have never heard such a row in all my life—it was a modern Tower of Babel. In this Colonial Institute were numerous committee rooms called 'Aulas,' so that the group sessions could proceed at all times, and these committees worked from 9 o'clock in the morning until the International Council, to which, by the way, through the favor of Sir Arthur Balfour I was attached as a member of the British Delegation—the room was equipped with the filene system. This consisted of a dial attached to the back of each chair and two ear-pieces; on the dial were marked English, French, German and Italian, and through a system of interpreters one could obtain the sub-

"The entertainments provided were numerous, and special care was taken for the ladies attending with the members. The inaugural session was held at the Concert Gibbour, and was honored by the presence of His Royal Highness the Prince of the Netherlands, and one of the principal speakers was

There were other varied entertainments provided, including a presentation at the Royal Palace, a trip to Rotterdam as the guests of that city, and a concert given by the Concert Gibouw. This was a wonderful entertainment with a splendid orchestra and notable singers. The ball held 1,300 delegates easily, and there were at least a similar number

...the stage extended in a semi-circle round this large hall, the floor of it was very high and the whole of it from the floor of the hall to the floor of the stage was pink drangas en masse. The first half of the concert was very short, then everyone went to a large hall behind the stage, where coffee, whiskey and soda, or anything one wanted, was served. Everybody stayed in there about half an hour.

concert. Another large entertainment was a luncheon given by the bankers of Amsterdam, which I attended.

"A rather funny incident happened in this connection. I told the hotel porter at The Amstel to get me a taxi. I was just getting into it when I saw three men, obviously of our southern neighbors, standing on the steps waiting for their taxi. I called out and brother and came along. We all down at a table together, and on menu was 'lobster with sauce a nadian.' One of my friends, Mr.

of Boston, turned to me and said,
'What is sauce a la Canadian?'
said, 'Mr. Weed, its that damned if you are trying to put a duty on remarked, 'Oh, for heaven's sake, get these nasty subjects.'

This lunch was given at the restaur-Paviljoen Vondelpark, some five es out in the most beautiful surroundings. Then there were more entertainments, and I recall one some fourteen of us there—Wm. Alexander, his wife and daughter San Francisco, a young lady from Angeles, Sir George Palish, Sir Geoffrey and Lady Clarke, the British Ambassador, a gentleman from Paris, and host and his family. It was given the private picture gallery of the use, covered with a glass roof, and walls were decorated with old tapestries, from the

was handed a strip of highly-pressed paper, and in front of each was about half a pound or a kind of Dutch candy in a silver packet. The ladies were expected to eat much of the candy, as they could to empty the rest out of the basket
 the paper bag and take them with them. I would like to tell more about this dinner party, but must not waste your time on such trivial matters.

attentance, and my only excuse for making it as long as I have in that I have a message. This year I was attached to the British delegation, but I can do very little for us as it would be impossible to make a speech to the master into an international atmosphere. We as citizens of Victoria have voluntary duties to the community, and as residents of the Province we have responsibilities to other provinces, and as a nation we have obligations to the community of nations. Canada today boasts fifth place in the imports and exports of the nations of the world, exceeded only by England, Germany and Japan, and at times its exports have been valued more than any other nation in the world. Surely it is up to us to take our part in a campaign which is all to the smaller than ourselves in the world trade are working for the good of the world, and we are not yet in the picture. If we take our part we must enter this Congress of Nations on a national basis with representations on the International Labour Conference and the League of this wonderful effort towards world peace and prosperity. Through the kindness of Sir Arthur Balfour I was given a lease on the International Council of the League of Nations, and of the British delegation, and it is essential that Canada should be represented on this weighty council in its right. Canada has put on the look of a nation, and we must must assume many responsibilities, and if we are to hold up our heads we must play our part in this great common effort without fear, and do it monthly.

NIGHT ACCUSED OF MANY THEFTS

Edmonton, Oct. 11.—With the arrest of eight men during the last three days, Alberta Provincial police believe they have brought to an end wholesale operations of an alleged gang of thieves, said by officials to have operated from Wainwright to Edmonton and from Leduc to Athabasca, using a fleet of at least three motor trucks to transport their loot, part of which was found in two separate caches, buried a few feet below the ground.

The men will appear in the provincial police court here next Monday morning.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)

Winnipeg, Oct. 11.—Wheat: The wheat market was again quiet with a small trade passing. While there was little pressure, prices were mostly lower, but the market received good local support on the small declines and with some short covering due to the fact that American markets Saturday the market was able to hold firm within a narrow range. The local cash wheat market was very slow. Direct exporters stated only a few old loads worked overnight to British millers.

Local shippers were mostly looking on, there being no bids worth while coming in. Millers were doing nothing flour situation unchanged and very slow. Offerings of cash wheat are not heavy, but there appears to be plenty available when any bids for large lots come in. Spreads were all about unchanged. There were a few lots of durum sold overnight and a little more interest was shown locally with spreads unchanged to quarter better.

Export business continues extremely small and disappointing but the big interests here, including the pool are of the opinion that Europe must come here shortly to fill their requirements on a much larger scale. For this reason, they are carrying the big load and supporting the market on declines. On the other hand European buyers are pretty well supplied for the time being at least, and is only taking sufficient Canadian wheats for mixing purposes.

Coarse grains—These markets were fractionally easier in the nearby months and about unchanged in the May. Trade volume was very light, and while the demand was very thin there was no pressure in evidence. No export business could be traced in anything. Elevator companies report a continued good demand for oats in the country.

Flax—Market was steady and a little firmer but trade was very ordinary and nothing of feature going on.

DOROTHY DIX

NO WOMAN ever gets her ideal husband for the very excellent reason that Prince Charmings exist only in fairy tales. In a real world real husbands are mere male creatures with tempers and nerves and narrowness and prejudices and littlenesses and meannesses and large and assorted varieties of human weaknesses mixed up with good qualities in even the best of them.

God made us that way, all fairly and truly like, to match the women. Otherwise divorce would be even more common than it is, for no wife could stand living with a perfect husband day in and day out. Nevertheless, every woman cherishes in her secret soul the vision of the ideal husband that she feels she should have got if Cupid hadn't double-crossed her.

To begin with, he would be a sheik. Tall, dark, with a classical profile and brooding, passionate eyes, but he would never know that he was handsome, nor go peacocking around, as masculine beauties usually do, expecting every woman to burn incense at their feet. Nor would he be so good-looking as to present an invidious comparison to himself. Heaven knows it is soothing to no woman's vanity to hear people say wherever they go: "Isn't Mr. Blank just perfectly stunning-looking?" And how do you suppose he ever came to marry that homely little frump?

Then he would have a way with women. He would be gallant. He would be a parlor knight who would always be picking up handkerchiefs and pulling out chairs and kissing hands. And he would have a keen line and know how to jolly a woman along and make them pretty speeches. He would be an adept at near-flirtations, but he would never philander and he would never, NEVER know that there was any other skirt but his Maria's.

He would be a masterful man. A man who dominated all about him. A man whom other men feared and of whom they stood in awe. A cold, hard, inexorable man who forced his will and opinions on others, but he would be clay in her hands, and she could do with him as she would.

Other men would defer to his opinions and respect his judgment, but he would obey her like a little child and never think of such a thing as interfering in her management of the house or the rearing of the children.

If she wanted to have the drawing-room done over in Empire style, Empire it would be without any foolish arguments on the subject. If she desired to go to Europe for the summer, he would immediately perceive that she needed a sea-voyage and foreign travel. If she wanted to put the children in private schools, he would say: "Yes, my dear," not because he was weak, but just because he recognized that she was always right about such things.

He would be understanding. He wouldn't be cross and grumpy and say mean, hateful things because there wasn't any dinner ready when he came home from work or an evening. He would know you simply CAN'T break up a bridge game just to rush home and cook something for your husband to eat, and that you were not to blame if the tea held on past 5 o'clock.

Nor would he raise a ruction every time you got a new hat that cost more than you should have paid and remind you that he was wearing his last year's lid. He would see that you couldn't let that uppity Mary Jones make you look like something out of the ragbag and that you just had to have a new blue hat to match your blue dress. And he would know that nobody ever notices a man's hat and he might just as well wear an old one as a new one.

He would be easy to live with. He wouldn't be fussy about his food and expect you to spend your time over the stove cooking him up hot meals when you could open up a can of something and get something else in from the delicatessen. Nor would he expect to be considered around the house or to have any rights in it.

He would be perfectly satisfied to be ousted out of the living-room by Mary and her boy friend, and out of the dining-room by Johnny and his gang, and out of his bedroom by his wife's relatives and to have to spend his evenings sitting in the kitchen or on the back stoop, and he wouldn't expect to have even one hanger in the closet for his individual possessions.

And he would simply be glad and consider it a privilege to stay at home and work while wife went away for a couple of months in the summer when it was hot and a couple of more months in the winter when it was cold, and he would never dream of such a wicked thing as stepping out in the long, lonely, dreary evenings.

He would be a money-maker, but he wouldn't let his business interfere with his amusing wife. He would always be able to drop his work and go away with her when she wanted to take a little trip. And he wouldn't be so absorbed in business as to neglect all the high-browed movements. He would be able to take as much interest in Matinee as he does in General Motors, if he is a business man, and if he is an intellectual he would pull off killings in the stock market as frequently as he does epigrams.

Above all, the ideal husband would be a perpetual lover. He would never weary of assuring his wife of his burning devotion and swearing that he couldn't live without her. He would never forget anniversaries, and no matter how old and fat she got he would assure her that she was still the most beautiful creature in the world.

A woman's ideal husband would be a composite of Rudolph Valentino, Henry Ford, Job and Ananias. Is it any wonder that she never finds him?

Sister Mary's Kitchen

By SISTER MARY

No matter how choice the foodstuffs used, inadequate seasoning is the worst of faults. Cooked food is flat and uninteresting. Tastes differ widely, but the essential point to keep in mind when cooking is to use seasoning that will bring out the flavor of the material used.

Salt is an art. The soup that was salted with "too heavy a hand" or the gravy that was seasoned too lightly proves this. Although salt is the most important of all seasonings, the others are legion and an intelligent use of them will make plain, everyday dishes twice as savory.

Sugar brings out the flavor of all vegetables unless they are fresh from the garden. A bit of sugar rubbed into the roast adds much to its richness and flavor.

"TONE" FOR BLAND FRUITS
Lemon juice and orange juice are invaluable as a means to accentuate the flavor of bland fruits and provide a pleasing contrast with vegetables, meats and fish. Beets and carrots gain much if orange juice is included in the seasoning. Lemon is proverbial with fish and oysters. Sections of orange served with lamb chops or broiled sweetbreads enhance the flavor of these delicious foods.

Vanilla is another flavor that means much in the art of cookery. Always buy the best. But too much vanilla conceals the flavor of the material being seasoned. A few drops of this subtle flavoring added with a little sugar to whipped cream produce a perfect blend of delicate flavors, but too much sugar or vanilla overpower the flavor of the cream itself.

And the "suspicion" of onion! Any vegetable or meat salad falls flat if this seasoning is completely ignored. A drop of onion juice added to the salad dressing does not give a definite onion flavor, but does produce an intriguing tastiness in the whole salad.

Although it's far better to err on the side of under-seasoning rather than over-seasoning, a dish that must be seasoned entirely after cooking is never so effective as one seasoned during the cooking.

SOME SPICY RULES
The strength of spices and salts varies. Those which have been exposed to the air lose some of their savoriness. Various foodstuffs absorb more or less salt or sugar. Accurate measurements cannot be given, but the following general rules are worth keeping in mind:
One-half to one teaspoon salt is calculated for one pound of meat.
One teaspoon salt is added to one quart of water when vegetables are half cooked. The vegetable aids in determining the amount of salt, since delicately flavored vegetables require less than strong flavored ones. The amount of butter and its saltiness influences the amount of salt used for any seasoning. Be it cake or vegetable.
One-eighth to one-fourth teaspoon pepper is commonly used in seasoning the average meat or vegetable dish unless the dish is wanted "hot."

VIEWING PEAKS FROM THE BOW
Many visitors to Banff National Park, Alberta, frequently use the Bow River as a means of viewing the peaks. Navigable for eight miles above Banff, the river affords some splendid views. Delightful canoe trips may also be made on Echo River and Willow Creek, tributaries of the Bow. Willow Creek especially affords not only magnificent views of the peaks, but is also noted for the beautiful reflection in its waters.

UTILIZING WOOD WASTE
There are in the Bordeaux district of France some three hundred motor trucks being operated on wood gas as a motor fuel. Development in this line are being followed at the Forest Products Laboratories of Canada, Department of the Interior, Ottawa, since the use of wood gas as a motor fuel may offer one valuable method of utilizing wood waste, particularly in outlying districts.

NORTH MAGNETIC POLE IN CANADA
The north magnetic pole is located in Boothia Peninsula on the Arctic Coast of Canada and the south magnetic pole in South Victoria Land south from New Zealand.
